All the Rage.

The ladies' "polka dot" Derby Hat, $1 75. They are saucy and bewitching, and the girls look just too "sweet to live in them." The "Famous" will fill your orders.

Totally Unauthorized.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Kindly state that the use of my name as one of the vice-presidents of the Republican meeting called for this evening at Armory Hall is unwarranted and without authority. I have been "born and bred" a Democrat and believe the continuation of the Republican party in power will prove disastrous to the principles of our Government. Respectfully,

A BROOKLYN FIRE.

The Ansonia Watch and Clock Works Burned.

NEW YORK, October 27.—The Ansonia Watch and Clock Works, Brooklyn, burned. Loss over half a million. The works have been in operation about fourteen months. The building and machinery originally cost over half a million dollars. From time to time additional machinery has been added and improvements made until, it is said, the works were the most complete in the country. Some of the machinery and new inventions will be difficult to replace. Mr. Davis, superintendent of the works, says it is not likely the factory will be erected on the same site, and that the company will put up another factory as soon as they can settle up their business. He did not know the amount of insurance.

THE DETAILS.

NEW YORK, October 27.—The factory was erected at Seventh avenue and Twelfth street to enhance the value of a tract of land owned by the proprietors of the works, and the neighborhood was building up rapidly. The origin of the fire is not definitely known. The watchman says he was making his rounds of the buildings, and upon reaching the fourth floor there was a report resembling an explosion of gas and immediately the flames burst forth. The alarm was given, but before the Fire Department arrived the flames had spread generally through out the building.

Four alarms were sounded, bringing the greater part of the fire apparatus of Brooklyn to the scene. The water thrown into the building seemed to have little effect and the fire raged until nothing was left but a blackened mass. Opposite the factory on Twelfth street were four two-story and basement brick dwellings, occupied by employes of the company. These were also destroyed. Several other dwellings were badly damaged. The main building of the factory covered fifty city lots. Phelps, Dodge & Co., of this city, are largely interested in the Ansonia Company.

By this fire 1,200 persons are thrown out of work. Half of the employes were young women and girls. The company, it is said, estimate their loss at $1,000,000, but they are not insured for more than half this sum. The company manufacture their own gas; have their own gas retorts. Last night, it is said, before the workmen left, the gas was low, and began to flicker. It was impossible for the men to continue work. So they left, leaving the gas jets turned on. Some went out. The gas still flowed in from the retort, it is said, and the gas escaped, which may account for the explosion which the watchman heard.

A meeting was held this afternoon by the Board of Fire Underwriters. A majority of the insurance companies that are losers by the fire at the manufactory of the Ansonia Clock Company were represented. The aggregate amount of the insurance on the building, stock and machinery was found to be $295,000, distributed among ninety-five companies. The policies vary from $2,500 to $10,000. It is said no company is interested for more than $10,000. There are some forty New York companies involved, and New Orleans, Cincinnati and Boston companies are interested. A committee of five was appointed to take the matter in charge and adjust the losses.

Protestant Episcopal Convention.

NEW YORK, October 27.—The last day's session of the Protestant Episcopal General Convention opened in the House of Deputies with religious services in which Bishop Bissell and Rev. Messrs. Joseph S. Jenks, of Iowa, and W. C. Gray, of Tenn., officiated.

The Committee on Canons reported the resolution declining to confer with the House of Bishops in changing the existing canon on the reinstatement of clergymen who have abandoned the church. The resolution was adopted. Rev. Dr. Beers, of the joint committee on securing a Missionary Bishop for each territory in which there is not at present a Bishop, reported in favor of the proposition. The report was adopted together with a resolution appointing a committee of twenty-one to act as an auxiliary to the Board of Managers of Missouri and to create a missionary bishop fund. A resolution from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution declaring it inexpedient at the present time to amend the constitution so as to require future legislation to be by canon was adopted.

A report of the joint committee on the subject of deaconesses was adopted. It set forth that women of devout character and approved fitness may be set apart by any Bishop for the work of deaconess.

GARFIELD'S LETTER.

Kenward Philp Arrested on a Charge of Forgery.

NEW YORK, October 27.—Kenward Philp, an editor of Truth, was arrested to-day in Brooklyn on a charge of forgery in connection with the so-called Garfield Chinese letter. He will be arraigned in the Supreme Court this afternoon. His counsel has already applied for his discharge on a writ of habeas corpus. According to another report from Brooklyn the arrest was made on a charge of counterfeiting post-office dies, upon a warrant granted in the Federal Courts.

HOW THE ARREST WAS MADE.

Philp was arrested in the lobby of the Park Theater, Brooklyn, while in conversation with ex-Sheriff Daggett, the Republican leader in Brooklyn, and other gentlemen. The arrest was made upon a warrant issued by Judge Noah Davis, presiding justice of the Supreme Court. It charges Philp with maliciously composing and publishing an alleged forged letter. Philp and the officer, accompanied by Wm. Veeder, lawyer, came over to the police headquarters of this city. After a brief detention Philp was taken to the Supreme Court. Judge Davis being temporarily absent, he was detained in the District Attorney's office. He will be arraigned before Judge Davis later in the day.

ONLY LIBEL.

NEW YORK, October 27.—Philp, it is now stated, was arrested on a charge of malicious libel and not, as first reported, for publishing the alleged forged letter.

NEW YORK, October 27.—A long consultation took place in the District Attorney's office between Assistant District Attorney Bell, U. S. Commissioner John I. Davenport and George Bliss, who, it is thought, will represent the prosecution, and Gen. Roger A. Pryor, ex Surrogate Veeder and Howe & Hummel, retained by the defense. The nature of the consultation was not made known. A few minutes before 3 o'clock Philp was take to the general term room of the Supreme Court, where the arrival of Judge Davis is now awaited. Ex-Minister Stoughton, Elihu Root and Henry E. Knox also appear for the prosecution. John I. Davenport was also in court to watch the proceedings.

3:15 P. M.

Judge Davis opened court at 3 o'clock and Mr. Bell stated that he desired to make a return to the warrant issued for the arrest of one Kenward Philp, who was charged with having published a criminal libel on James A. Garfield. Mr. Bell was proceeding to read the affidavits on which the warrant was obtained, when Mr. Pryor objected and the Judge decided to allow them to be read. The first was made by Col. Geo. Bliss, and Mr. Bell had hardly commenced when he was again interrupted by Gen. Pryor, who stated his client waived an examination, and desired to have the matter presented speedily to the grand jury, so that an early trial could be had. He was ready to try the case to-morrow and under those circumstances it was not proper to read the affidavits.

FORGING BEAUTIFUL SNOW.

NEW YORK, October 27.—From the Evening Post: The charge of criminal libel, Mr. Stoughton explained, was in order to guard against any possible difficulty in sustaining the simple charge of forgery. Philp appeared very nonchalant when arrested, and when a friend asked him what was the matter he replied, "I believe I am arrested for forging 'Beautiful Snow.' The evidence against Philp consists in part of expert testimony as to the forged letter, but it is understood papers containing writing of the same character as that of the forged letter have been secured.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

A Tale Dodge With the Great Corporations.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, October 27.—The Evening Post says: "The rise in Chicago and Alton is accompanied by reports of an increase in the share capital for the benefit of the present stockholders. Stock dividends and doubling the share capital are becoming as fashionable among corporations as before 1873. The fact is railroad business is now so profitable that corporations hesitate to divide all they earn for fear of attracting hostile legislation, and they resort to a method of paying smaller dividends on a larger nominal capital. It is probably within bounds to say there are many pieces of railroad property which this year will earn forty to fifty per cent of the actual original cost of the road; so the property is capitalized to four or five times its actual cost. Dividends declared on enlarged capital do not seem to the casual observer to be enormous. The real remedy for this excessive capitalization will be found in competing lines built at a lowest and capitalized at cost or somewhat more than double the actual cost. So long as general business continues good it is not likely the legislatures in the various States will trouble the corporations which have watered their capital, although it may be reasonably claimed that where business is so profitable the rates for freight and passengers should be reduced, and that the people who granted the charters should share somewhat in the profits of the business done under those charters."

Sale of the Chicago Jockey and Trotting Club.

CHICAGO, October 27.—The property of the Chicago Jockey and Trotting Club was sold to-day for $29,500 to A. W. Richmond, owner of Young Hopeful, and son of Dean Richmond, of New York. The property was sold under a judgment note held by the Downer and Bemis Brewing Company, amounting to $29,000. This sale does not in any way effect the interest in the club of J. H. Haverly, who has a three year lease. The Pool Club-house and bar privileges will not expire till 1883, and the sale was made subject to that lease. It is considered a good investment which will steadily grow more valuable.

Murder of a Farmer.

MIDDLETOWN, O., October 27.—Patrick Dailey, a farmer living near Poast Town, Butler county, was shot here last night. He had been put out of Mike Riley's saloon, where he had quarreled with a man named Cummins. Thos. Johnson, a friend of Cummins, followed Dailey to the street, where he shot him through the heart. Johnson escaped.

Death of a Political Writer.

CINCINNATI, October 27.—Hon. E. D. Mansfield died at his residence near Morrow, O., this morning, at an advanced age. He has been widely known as a political and general writer for the Cincinnati Gazette and New York papers. His signature in the Gazette was "E. D. M.," in New York the "Veteran Observer."

A Ship Abandoned.

BOSTON, October 27.—The steamer Illyrian arrived to-day from Liverpool with the officers and crew of the ship Isaac Webb, abandoned in a sinking condition.

Marine.

HAMBURG, October 27.—Arrived: Gellert, from New York.

NEW YORK, October 27.—Arrived: Newnborn, from Antwerp.

SEA MUSIC.

The tide rises, the tide falls,
The twilight darkens, the curlew calls;
Along the sea sands damp and brown
The traveler hastens toward the town,
And the tide rises, the tide falls.

Darkness settles on roofs and walls,
But the sea in the darkness calls and calls:
The little waves, with their soft, white hands,
Efface the footprints in the sands,
And the tide rises, the tide falls.

The morning breaks, the steeds in their stalls
Stamp and neigh as the hostler calls;
The day returns, but never more
Returns the traveler to the shore,
And the tide rises, the tide falls.

LONGFELLOW.

STAGE DRESSING.

How the New York Actresses Stun Their Less Fortunate Sisters.

From a New York Letter.

The leading actresses and beauties of the American stage are not disposed to permit Sara Bernhardt to get the better of them in fine dressing at least. The sprightly Breatrix, of the New York Mirror, thus speaks of the rage for magnificent toilets that has taken possession of the New York stage: At the present moment at three New York theaters can be studied the most extravagant costumes of modern construction. That which "Our First Families" left undone at Daly's, we, through Fannie Davenport, accomplished at the Fifth Avenue, until Wednesday evening, when Ellie Walton and Rose Etynge grappled with the great dress question, and gave us a genuine surprise. After the gorgeous apparel exhibited up town, it was left for the little Park to reeval the further possibility of the New York dressmaker when really put to her mettle.

Rose Etynge is too ponderous about the waist, and too short about the legs to do splendid costumes entire justice. Her first dress was one of baffled-beauty, though she appeared to best advantage in it. A walking costume of royal purplish wine-color, with too purplish a tint for claret and too reddish a hue for plum, this over-dress was draped high at one side over a rich brocaded satin skirt. A Cavalier hat, with shaded feathers and magnificent parasol, completed a picture of well-dressed buxom behuty. In succeeding acts Miss Etynge wore an evening costume of black tulle, profusely adorned with wide golden embroidery. The puffs of illusion were too stuffy and gave the lady a croupy effect about the the throat. Miss Etynge has little or no neck and lots of shoulders; the flattest trimmings and plainest cut waists are most becoming. In the card-playing scene she appeared in a neutral-tinted silk, into which V shaped pieces of gold and dark striped material were jet on the smallest provocation. They were found at the neck of the corsage, back and front, at the top of the sleeves, and at frequent intervals all over the dress. In this gown, with a tight pair of white gloves, the lady sat down to swindle her host at cards, and found she had all she could do to hold the pack and deal a perfectly square game, after the fashion of a pair of children playing "Old Maid." In the last act, clad in funeral weeds, her duty was performed—a disagreeable one it would seem, being that of holding poor Wilton's nicely barbered head into a hemlock bush, jerking it out, whispering loud and wicked words into it, and putting it right back into another bush. Miss Wilton, ever elegant, on this occasion was too swell for earthly use. She dazzled the house first in a dress of blue velvet, court train, embroidered in every shade of blue, over an embroidered white satin petticoat and stomacher, with an Elizabethan collar about her graceful neck, and the family diamonds, more numerous and beautiful than ever. Further acts brought forth a lovely white brocade toilet and one of opal brocade, an open-work embroidered front of pinks and blues, and intricate arrangements in the way of draping, over a petticoat of white, which had about the bottom a shell-flounce of the white silk lined with blue. Pretty Josephine Baker's slender figure showed to advantage in a robe of inserting and narrow puffings, the entire dress being composed of embroidery and muslin.

A THREE-LEGGED BEAR.

Gnawing Off His Paw to Escape from a Trap—Killed at Last.

Tidioute (Pa.) Cor. New York Sun.

Three years ago, sheep, pigs, and occasionally a calf belonging to people living about Guyon Settlement, Warren county, were missed from pastures and pens. It was at last discovered that an immense black bear made the havoc. The men of the place went after him with guns and dogs. He was hunted for weeks. He was seen several times and shot at. Once he came suddenly out into a road where George Root was standing, rifle in hand. Root fired and hit the bear. The bear turned on the hunter. Root dropped his gun and climbed a tree. The bear waited under the tree for him until dark. It was late in the fall and very cold. When the bear walked off into the woods, Root was nearly frozen, and had diffiulty in reaching home, three miles away. A week afterward the bear was attacked by two dogs that were with a party of hunters. Before any of the men arrived on the scene both dogs were killed and the bear had disappeared in the swamp. A large steel trap was baited with honey and set in a place that showed signs of the bear's frequent presence. The men who went to look at the trap next morning found it sprung. It held the fore paw of a bear. The size of the paw indicated that the animal to which it had belonged was of great size. It appeared to have been gnawed from the leg. A trail of blood led from the trap to the swamp. That was the last ever seen or heard of the big bear.

Three weeks ago the sheep, pigs and calves of Guyon Settlement began to be mysteriously thinned out again. One day a bear was seen to cross the road near the place by some school children. George Watson and A. R. Root, Jr., took two dogs and went out with rifles to kill the bear. The dogs struck a track on the mountain in less than an hour, and they came up to the bear in a very short time. When Root and Watson arrived they found the dogs both engaged in a fight with a very large specimen of the game they were seeking. When the bear saw the men, it knocked one of the dogs with its fore paw, and threw it twenty feet away. It did not return to the contest. The bear then rushed for the hunters. Root stopped it with a rifle ball. It made a second attack, and Watson sent a ball into it. It arose the third time and endeavored to reach the men, who had retreated to a safe distance, but fell after making a few steps and died. The bear had but three feet. One of its fore paws was missing. For that reason the residents of Guyon Settlement believe that the dead bear was the one that was in the neighborhood three years ago. The bear was very thin, but was the largest ever killed in that region. In good condition it would have weighed 500 pounds.

The Late Harry Beckett.

From the New York Sun.

Harry Beckett, for seven years the popular low comedian at Wallack's Theater, died in London on Saturday of a chronic disease for which he had lately endured a surgical operation. This was a peculiarly sad termination of an effort to realize his ambition by making a London reputation. Beckett first went on the stage as a comic singer in Birmingham, England, and soon developed an aptitude for grotesque acting; but he had not made much progress in his profession before Lydia Thompson engaged him for the burlesque company which she originally brought to this country in 1868. He was liked here, and for five years remained with the successive Lydia Thompson organizations. He had a mobile face, and could put it into a variety of comic shapes; and his grotesque antics did much to popularize the English style of extravaganza in this country. But he desired to rise above buffoonery, and to this end secured an engagement at Wallack's in 1873. He soon had good opportunities in "Tony Lumpkin" and "Bob Acres," and thenceforth was a great favorite with Wallack's audiences. He was not versatile, nor an able mimic, nor ever able to sink his personality in any character; but he was always droll and laughter-provoking. He had warm friends off the stage, was a well-behaved gentleman, and was devoted to his wife.

Beckett was not satisfied with his American success. He wanted to act in London, believing that he could make a hit there; and this desire was the cause of leaving Wallack's at the close of last season. A party of friends accompanied him down the bay, and wished him good luck. He appeared at the Haymarket Theater, in Boucicault's "Bridal Tour," and wrote back that he had no cause to complain of his reception, though the play failed. While engaged he was taken fatally ill.

A dispatch confirming the previous reports of his death was received last night at the Lambs' Club, of which he had been Shepherd for a number of yers. A dinner to a number of prominent theatrical people now in the city was to have been given last night, but was postponed on account of the sad tidings from London. Geo. Fawcett Rowe said last night: "Poor Beckett! I saw him in London only six weeks ago, with his two children on either hand, and I was deeply pained at the change that had taken place in his appearance since a year ago, when he was quite ruddy and hearty. I hardly knew him when we met in Regent street, and I am sure it was excusable, for he had indeed run down pitifully."

HOW TO TREAT A WATCH.

A Few Simple Rules for the Preservation of a Perfect Timepiece.

From Chambers' Journal.

Having obtained a really serviceable article you should, in order to produce satisfactory results, follow out these rules: Wind up your watch every day at the same hour. This is generally done at the hour we retire to rest, or perhaps better still, at the hour we rise. Avoid putting a watch on a marble slab or near anything excessively cold. The sudden transition from heat to cold contracting the metal may sometimes cause the main spring to break. Indeed, the cold coagulates the oil, and the wheel work and pivots working less freely affect the regularity of the timekeeper. When we lay our watch aside we ought to stope it on a watch-case, as to keep it nearly in the same position as it has in the pocket. In laying aside your watch be sure that it rests on its case, as by suspending it free the action of the balance may cause oscillation, which may considerably interfere with its going. If you would keep your watch clean you must be quite sure that the case fits firmly, and never put it into any pocket but one made of leather. Those pockets which are lined with cloth, cotton or calico give, by the constant friction, a certain quantity of fluff, which enters most watches, even those the cases of which shut firmly. If the watch is not a "keyless" one, the key should be small, in order that we may feel the resistance of the stop-work; then we can stop in time without forcing anything. It is also necessary that the square of the key should correspond with that of the watch. If it be too large it may in a short time cause the wind-up square to suffer from undue tear and wear, the rectifying of which is rather expensive. The hands of an ordinary watch can be turned backward without much risk. It is, however, always better to move the hands forward to adjust your watch to correct time.

A skillful watchmaker thus reasoned with a customer who complained of his watch: "You complained," said he, "that your watch gains a minute a month. Well, then, you will congratulate yourself when you have heard me. You are aware that in your watch the balance, which is the regulator, makes five oscillations every second, which is four hundred and thirty-two thousand a day; so that your watch, exposed to all the vicissitudes which heat and cold occasion it, the varying weight of the air and the shaking to which it is subjected, has not varied more than a minute a month, or two seconds a day. It has only acquired with each vibration of the balance a variation of the two hundredth and sixteen thousandth part of a second. Judge, then, what must be the extreme perfection of the mechanism of this watch!"

A watch cannot go for an indefinite period without being repaired or cleaned. At the expiration of a certain time the oil dries up, dust accumulates and wear and tear are inevitable results to the whole machinery, the functions becoming irregular and frequently ceasing to act altogether. A person possessing a watch of good quality and desirous of preserving it as such should have it cleaned every two years at least. But care should be taken to confide this cleaning or repairing to careful hands; an incapable workman may do great injury to a watch even of the simplest construction.

How a Town Was Born.

From the Philadelphia Times.

One day last summer two men who were riding in the San Juan country, below Animas City, Colorado, drew reins that they might water their horses in a delightfully cool stream. The banks of the stream were covered with grass and flowers. Both men seemed to grasp the same idea at the same moment—that the spot would soon become the site of a prosperous town. They rode back to Animas and bought what land along the stream they were able, then proceeding on their journey up into the mountains. When these men returned, a month ago, they found a settlement on the banks of the stream where they had halted. The miners at Silverton and Rico had sent men into the valley to put up permanent buildings, and the workmen having selected the beautiful site indicated had named the place Durango. It is now the Mecca of all the San Juan country. People are flocking thither as the winter approaches, and houses are going up as if by magic. The sounds of the saw and hammer are heard far into the night. Over $30,000 worth of lots have been sold within the last month. Several brickyards are in full blast, and they fail to supply the demand. Saw mills are springing up on the outskirts of the place. Four squares are reserved in the center of Durango as "the fine district," and the erection of brick and stone houses only is permitted. A railroad is approaching. Already "the Animas and Durango stage line" figures in the spicy local paper. The town is located in a valley, and is almost surrounded by mountains, which make the rest of the San Juan country so disagreeable in winter. A half-dozen saloons are in full blast. The Durango dance-hall is a thing of life. The Durango church is a thing of the future.

CHIC.

One of the odd results of tight gowns is that the tradesmen at English seaside resorts find themselves out of pocket by the visits of young ladies who buy things and do not pay for them, giving an excuse that they can not carry a purse while wearing a jersey and a straight skirt. At more than one place the tradesmen refuse to do anything but a "cash business" with young ladies who are not accompanied by a responsible man.

English ivy is a charming decoration for rooms in the winter season, but it is difficult to keep the leaves fresh-looking with furnace heat and gas. A lady, whose ivies, in spite of these drawbacks, always retain the appearance of vigor and beauty, says she puts a small piece of beefsteak at the root of the plants every spring and fall. The same result, it is said, can be produced by lightly rubbing each leaf on both sides with sweet oil.

All noted diamonds have been cut at Amsterdam, and it has been supposed that a secret art in this matter existed there, known to a few only, who monopolized the business. But now expert diamond cutters in New York City are improving the brilliancy of Amsterdam cut gems, by recutting them with mathematical facets, according to scientific laws of light. This process reduces somewhat the weight, but greatly increases the value of these precious stones.

The Bernhardt brings with her about thirty new dresses, not by Worth, as has been incorrectly stated, but by Felix, regarded by Parisiennes as one of their most artistic faiseurs—that is to say, "doers," so-called because they "do" both the gowns and those who wear them, if such a bit of slang is permissible at five o'clock tea. Among the dresses are seven deshabille, tea-gowns or dressing-gowns, the prettiest being of white lace, covered almost entirely with seed-pearls. The cost of all this gorgeous raiment was more than $15,000.

Conkling's Western Campaign in the Company of Mrs. Sprague.

Providence Correspondence New York Star.

The Sprague-Conkling scandal, which so thoroughly excited social and political circles, has been revived by the action which the friends and advisers of Kate Chase Sprague have taken in Providence during the past week, and this action has brought to the surface many new and startling developments. It is generally known that all Mrs. Sprague's friends are bitter enemies of the ex-Governor, and that they tried in every way to crush him, but he is still defiant.

The new action originated with Mr. A. Corbin, of New York, a cousin of Kate's, who, acting under power of attorney, telegraphed Mr. Chaffee, the trustee of the Sprague manufacturing firm, to take possession of her personal property at Canonchet, where the ex-Governor has been living since Kate fled. In her behalf, Chaffee, who is inimical to Sprague, appointed Robert Thompson custodian of the place at Canonchet, and authorized him to issue a writ of replevin, which he has not yet served for reasons which are shown. The news reached Sprague, and he at once took down the now famous shot-gun, and, intrenching himself in the beautiful mansion, now calmly awaits the oncoming of the repleviners. He has been worked up to a degree of frenzy and exasperation which is without parallel, and solemnly proclaims that no man shall set foot within Canonchet with any business such as Mrs. Sprague and Corbin have started. Thus far the custodian has had the fear of the shot-gun policy before him, and has not served the writ.

Sprague swears that the man who tries to enter the place will be shot down like a cur. He claims to hold possession in the interests of the Aquidnonk Company, of which he is the superintendent appointed by the trustees, and will not allow the emissaries of Kate to gain a foothold. He is securely intrenched, and will hold no parley with any one. This new phase of the matter has recalled many new elements in the case.

Roscoe Conkling, who has been stumping in Indiana, is known to have been in company with Mrs. Sprague during part of his travels. While returning to Buffalo he occupied a drawing-room car, the doors of which were kept securely locked during the entire trip, and when the train reached Buffalo Mrs. Sprague suddenly appeared. A gentleman named Seymour, who has been a friend of the family, was at Buffalo at the time Roscoe and Kate were there and called upon Mrs. Sprague. This information he has just imparted to the ex-Governor, who is further frenzied thereby, and cries out for the blood of Roscoe. This situation of affairs has brought to light a primary chapter in the Sprague-Conkling imbroglio, which has hitherto been kept an inviolate secret. This is not the first time Roscoe has violated the home circle of Sprague. Some years ago he insinuated himself into the fireside circle, and became so open in his caresses of the fair Kate that the husband was aroused, and became so wild at the thought of his wife's perfidy that he would have rehearsed the Sickles-Key tragedy then and there but for the interference of friends. Sprague would not, however, sit down idly under the insult, and, after a day or two had passed, and his terrible passion had somewhat cooled, he sent a challenge to Conkling, which was in due time accepted. Preliminaries were at once arranged by mutual friends, the seconds were chosen, surgeons were selected, and the tragic affair reached such a point that the ground was fixed upon. At the interposition of friends they again stopped the affair with Sprague's consent upon one unalterable condition—that Roscoe Conkling should never again invade the Sprague home circle. To this Conkling agreed, and the ex-Governor then gave him a warning that if ever Roscoe was caught near his place in Rhode Island he would shoot him as he would a dog.

How far Roscoe abided by his sacred pledge to the plucky little Governor is illustrated in his appearance at Canonchet in the summer of 1879 and the renewal of his caresses to Mrs. Sprague. With his escapade here the country is familiar, as it also is with the decisive manner in which Sprague proposed to keep his word of two years ago. The time intervening between the day when Sprague and Conkling proposed to abide by the code, and the renewal of Conkling's advances to Kate, is thus shown to have been but a few months. Mrs. Sprague has been missed from her usual haunts for some time past. She has ostensibly been traveling for her health, but her discovery at the same hotel in Buffalo with Conkling betrays the secret of the kind of health she was seeking. Mr. Seymour, who discovered her, is a gentleman of unquestionable veracity, and has been a warm friend of the ex-governor and Mrs. Sprague. That she was in Buffalo with Roscoe cannot be doubted when Mr. Seymour states that he had a social chat with her at the hotel.

A day or two ago Sprague, thinking it would be of pleasure for his son Willie to visit his mother, who was supposed to be in Washington, and the boy wishing to go, he telegraphed Mrs. Sprague to know if it would be agreeable for her to have Willie for a few days. He received the reply that Mrs. Sprague was away traveling, and that any business the ex Governor had to do with Mrs. Sprague must be done through her legal representatives.

With regard to the writ of replevin, which is the outcome of Mr. Corbin's efforts in Kate's behalf, it is learned that it calls for the personal property of Kate, which is said to consist of table and bed linen and other household articles. The Governor claims that these goods are part of the property now in the hands of the trustee, and in the event of their removal he would be held responsible. Aside from this, their absence from Canonchet would contribute toward breaking up his home, a circumstance which he does not propose to permit. The flagrant efforts which Mrs. Sprague and her friends have made to drive the Governor from Canonchet have made him sour and stubborn. The writer saw him but a short time since, and he was a haggard, broken man, bearing unmistakable evidence of the wear and tear of the distressing annoyances by which he is encompassed. He is nervous and sullen, having lost the buoyancy for which he was once noted. He keeps by himself, and takes solitary walks about the grounds at Canonchet, and is visited at intervals only by one or two staunch and old friends, who have stood by him in all his troubles. But now that he has intrenched himself within the walls of his mansion even these are denied admission, and he is on guard night and day to enforce his shot-gun policy should there be any attempt to oust him. The new phase of the case has created unbounded excitement in this city and much speculation is indulged in in regard to the result.

It is believed that the writ of replevin will be served if it requires the aid of a posse of police. There seems to be no doubt that Mr. Thompson will serve the writ. In that event there seems to be little question that there will be bloodshed, for Sprague is determined to hold the fort at all hazards. The sympathy of the people of this section is largely with the Governor, and the machinations of Corbin and company are vigorously denounced. Mr. Thompson to-day left this city for Canonchet, and is to-night in the neighborhood of that place. One of the associate counsel informs your correspondent that Mr. Thompson will return to this city to-morrow (Saturday) morning, at which time the fruits of his journey will be learned.

It may be mentioned that Mr. Z. Chaffee, the trustee of the A. & W. Sprague Manufacturing Company, who has hitherto appeared to be very cordially inclined toward Gov. Sprague, has become an ally of the other side, and taken up the cudgel in behalf of Mrs. Sprague. This fact is shown in his appointment of Mr. Thompson, one of Mrs. Sprague's counsel, whom she left in charge of her affairs, as custodian of the property at Canonchet. The result of his night trip to the place is looked forward to with great interest by the people here, and there is some speculation whether the shot-gun battery will be opened under the driving storm which now prevails.

A Hero.

From the Knoxville Tribune.

Charlie Owen, express messenger on the train that was wrecked last Friday evening, was struck between the shoulders by a box, temporarily paralyzing his arms, but when offered a glass of whisky by the physician he refused, and when the doctor urged him he again refused. Insisting, the medical gentleman and several others standing near told him he must take it to save his life. "No, sir!" said the young man, firmly refusing. "When I went to railroading I promised my mother that I would never touch whisky, and I'll die here in my tracks before I'll touch it." The young man mentioned is a brother of the agent at Knoxville. He is about 19 years of age, and has been in the employ of the Southern Express Company for a few months only. He has been tried on several roads, and on account of his integrity, intelligence, and close application to duty, has been rapidly promoted by his route agent to the position of "first-class" messenger. He left Lynchburg Sept. 24 with a heavy "run" of freight and valuables. The entire train left the track near Big Lick, and the express car and contents were all torn to splinters. Charlie was dragged from under the wreck crushed and bruised, and was evidently suffering greatly. His first words were to call for his safe and the two boxes of silver. When brought to him he extended his bruised body over them, and watched his valuable "run" through the long hours of the night.

Coal Oil Running to Waste.

Bradford (Pa.) Cor. New York Sun.

There are in round numbers nearly 8,000 producing oil wells in the Bradford district. Their daily yield is 70,000 barrels. The lower or old oil fields are producing 12,000 barrels a day. The daily demand for petroleum is 55,000 barrels. This is the amount now run by the pipe lines. The accumulation of oil for which there is no present demand long ago exhausted the storage capacity. For three months 6,000 barrels have been running to waste every day. There are 2,000,000 barrels of petroleum in wooden tanks at the wells. It is estimated that there are at least 8,000,000 barrels of accumulated stocks in the storage tanks of the pipe lines. The oil that is running to waste is run upon the ground and into the creeks. Enterprising individuals build dams along these streams and collect the floating "grease." Hundreds of barrels are pumped off and stored in improvised tanks to await a market. Individual producers are building private tanks to store the over production. There are now 400,000 barrels of this tankage in this region. The number of wells steadily increases every month, in spite of the situation.

The Bradford wells are all flowing wells. This fact is what caused the abandoning of so many of the wells in the lower field, they being all pumpers. Until recently the "sucker-rod" and pumping engine were almost unknown in the Bradford field. Now they are in demand. Many of the old wells have fallen off greatly in their yield. The supply companies cannot furnish enough sucker-rods and engines to meet the call for them. Second-hand ones from the lower field find a ready market at good prices. This resort to the pump is creating no little uneasiness in the field. It indicates that the gas is failing. A flowing well on being pumped increases its yield largely, but the continuance of a full yield becomes uncertain. The positively defined area of the Bradford oil-producing field includes over 65,000 acres. There is a well to every five acres of land that has been developed, which leaves about 30,000 acres yet to drill. Wells on this territory will not be put down with such reckless haste as has characterized past operations, because it is controlled by large companies of capitalists.

French Drinks.

From the Parisian.

But to return to the question of beverages. In the cafes the Parisians drink beer, which chemical analysis shows to be bad, and made with anything rather than malt or hops. It is true that you can have English, Flemish and Viennese beer, but, as a rule, the drink of a country is only good in that country, unless it be wine, and many exquisite wines will not bear transportation. Absinthe is very much drunk, insomuch that the heure de l'absinthe has won for itself a place among the twenty-four hours of a Parisian day. But the absinthe that you find in most cafes is adulterated and oxidized; the vermouth, too, is falsified, and the liqueurs are often "doctored." Wine, as we have seen, is not drunk in public by respectable people.

The French drink par excellence, and the Parisian drink par essence, is coffee, that slow poison which supported the old age of Voltaire, and which did not prevent Fontenelle from becoming a centenarian. In no country in Europe, except Turkey, is coffee so well roasted, ground and brewed as in France, and in the commonest cafe you will get a cup of coffee which is nectar compared with the muddy and acrid mixtures which are sold as coffee in London and Berlin. In the Parisian cafes two measures are in vogue: the demi-tasse, served in a cup, and the mazagran, served in a long glass, and stirred up with a long spoon as slender and graceful as the body of Sara Bernhardt. You will find in some vocabularies for the use of the foreigner that the name mazagran is only applied to cold coffee. This is an error, like that of imagining that a glass holds more than a cup.

Ninety Miles a Minute.

From the New York Times.

There was turned out from the Grant Locomotive works in Paterson N. J., yesterday, a new locomotive of peculiar construction, intended for the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad. Eugene Fontaine, the inventor, claims that this locomotive can be made to go 90 miles an hour, while the machinery is run no faster than that of an ordinary locomotive traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The machinery is all on top of the boiler instead of under it. The driving wheel rests on another wheel, which in turn rests on the track. This lower wheel has two rims, one a foot smaller than the other. The outer rim touches the track, and the inner or smaller rim supports the driving wheel. The motion of the driving wheel thus communicated is magnified by this arrangement so that the lower wheel turns one-third faster than the driving wheel, and so the speed is increased. The smaller rim of the lower wheel bears to the larger rim a relation similar to that of a very large hub to any wheel. Of course any rate of motion communicated to such a hub is greatly magnified at the periphery of the wheel. In the same way the motion of the driving wheel in this case is magnified by the peculiar arrangement of the wheel it rests upon. Mr. Fontaine believes that his locomotive, if it were not for the increased resistance of the air, could be run at the rate of 107 miles an hour. He expects it to make 80 miles an hour easily. The machinery of the new locomotive, which stood propped up on blocks, was put in motion on Saturday with satisfactory results. Many railroad men have visited it.

Talked Her Jaw Out of Joint.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

While engaged in a controversy Sunday afternoon with some neighbors in the alley between Market and Main and Preston and Jackson, Malinda Holmes, a negro woman, endeavored to give emphasis to her words by throwing her face into all sorts of shapes, a la Kersands, in doing which she jerked her jaw out of place. After it had assumed the dislocated position her most frantic efforts failed to budge it, which scared her so that she thought the "sweet by-and-by" was close at hand. Her antagonists in the tongue-lashing encounter became frightened, too, and ran for Dr. Corrigan and told him that Malinda had the lock-jaw. When the doctor reached the place where free speech had been interrupted, he found her pacing to and fro in the room, her arms folded majestically over her head and her mouth wide open, from which protruded her tongue, flapping up and down in a spasmodic effort to say something, but, as she was unable to divide the noise she was making into words, she gave vent to her locked-up feelings in meaningless grunts. The doctor seized hold of her refractory jaw and jerked it into its place again, when her tongue resumed its wonted wag, and she returned to the conflict, assuring her adversaries that the Lord could stop her tongue, but they could not.

HUMAN BONES FOR LUCK.

Playing Cards Over Rifled Graves to Get a "Charm"—Ghastly Superstitions.

From the Vernon (Ala.) Clipper.

On Sunday morning about half-past 1 o'clock Sheriff Lacy was called up by armed men, who demanded the keys of the jail. When posidively refused they placed a guard at his door and told him not to come out, as they did not wish to hurt him. They then proceeded to the jail, broke open the doors and, after hammering the cage awhile, were heard calling: "Come out of there; come out of there!" several times. Then ten or twelve shots were heard, though mostly pistols, and the men, thought to be about thirty in number, marched away. When they were gone Lindsey Portwood, Dudley Brothers and Wesley Richardson were found dead in the cage and the door of the cage broken open. They had been committed ten days before for violating graves.

Coroner W. T. Marler summoned a jury and held an inquest. Dr. William A. Brown, examined the bodies in the presence of the jury and made out a statement in writing of the nature and number of the wounds and stated that they all came to their death by shot wounds. Thomas R. Nesmith, solicitor, summoned and examined before the jury every person from whom it was supposed any testimony could be obtained, but no discovery was made as to who committed the crime. The citizens of Vernon met and prepared good plain coffins and dressed the dead in neat suits and gave them decent burial. The colored people refused to aid and seemed to have a superstitious fear of coming near the dead. The crime committed by these unfortunate men and the facts and manner of its discovery are about as follows: One day last month a negro named Dock Poe, being sick and thinking he was about to die, unburdened his conscience to his nurse, an old negro woman named Jude Dobbins, and named the above three as engaged in the crime, and told that some of the human bones they had been operating with were about the house. Aunt Jude, thinking that Poe would die, and being superstitiously alarmed, communicated her information to a white woman. The white people, finding that several graves had been dug into, became excited and were threatening summary vengence. Some prudent citizens obtained a warrant, and succeeded in arresting the three named above for violating graves. Poe being sick, they did not disturb him. The prisoners, when arrested, separately confessed the crime, and each told about the same story. Each was taken to the graves separately and each pointed out the graves they had opened. The prisoners were then taken before a magistrate, who, upon their full confession, committed them to jail. The citizens who had the matter in hand had great difficulty in protecting the prisoners until they were lodged in jail, and for several days afterward the Sheriff and citizens of Vernon feared something like what has now happened, but all seemed to have become quiet. The people afterwards opened and examined the graves. One, in which a man had been buried about thirty-five years, had been dug out to the bottom and the decayed bones were mixed with the dirt to the top and some of them were found out of the grave. The negroes said they did not take any of them, because they were too much decayed. The other was that of a Mrs. Tom Poe, who had been buried about two years. The left hand of the corpse had been pulled off at the wrist and was missing. The right arm had been pulled off at the shoulder and was missing, and the corpse was mangled and turned about in the coffin. The lid had been merely laid back and the grave filled. The negroes said they had taken away the hands. They all had bones about their persons, which they said were from Mrs. Poe's hands. These bones are now in possession of Sheriff Lacy, and are said not to belong to the same human hand. It is believed that several other graves have been dug into. The graveyard where most of the digging has been done is at or near Poplar Spring Church, in the southwest corner of this county, and all the graves molested were the graves of white people.

The cause of this strange conduct, as related by the negroes themselves, is as follows: During November and December last a negro by the name of Jerry Vaugn, from Mississippi, stayed among them and sold them rights and recipes for working charms and performing miracles. To acquire the "card charm" three or more go to a grave, one kneels at the head and prays, one or more stand at the foot and curse, the balance dig down and get the bones and fill up the grave again, the praying and cursing going on all the while. Then all join in a game of cards on the grave and all have acquired the "charm." They put the bones in a poke or string them and wear them about their body, and, as they expressed it, "we have good luck." They lick dust of human bones and wet the tips of their fingers while they handle or play cards, and have "good luck." They rub the cards against the bones about their body for "luck." And they swallow the dust for "good luck" in any undertaking. Rumor has it that they said: "If a black man will take a dose of the dust of a white woman's bones he can then charm any white woman and do as he pleases with her." We do not vouch for this, as the prisoners never mentioned this charm to the Sheriff after they were put in jail, but they spoke freely of the others, and said they did not see that they had any better "luck."

Foolish Women in Hyde Park.

From the London News.

The frequenter of Hyde Park during the season in the early hour when walkers most do congregate remarks that women, by means of certain machinery concealed sub roba, have their garments so drawn behind them that the shape of the limbs is apparent, and the ungainly, because restricted, stretch of the knee in walking betrays itself at every step. He observes, also, that the faces of most of the ladies who wear short black close veils are of a faint purplish hue, which either experience, or some feminine friend, instructs him is the result of moistening the skin with some sticky substance and then sprinkling it with pearl powder. He sees that the movement of the limbs is hindered by a long and narrow spike placed under the middle of the sole of the foot, tilting the whole body forward and producing an alternate one-shouldered mode of advance, which causes the mass of drapery behind to wobble from side to side in a manner to excite his sympathy in his own free-trousered condition. The fact also that directly the wearers of these spikes sit down they seek to relieve their compressed toes by resting their feet on the edge of the heel, further testifies to the sufferings which the frequenter of the park deplores. If he turns his attention later in the course of the fashionable day from this type of womanhood which is found chiefly, though not universally, among the younger ranks, the sisters and the cousins, and diverts it to the older ones, the mothers and the aunts, he is not much more highly edified. He comtemplates very large ladies sitting ponderously in handsome carriages. He watches the dull faces succeed each other in the monotonous round of the prescribed drive. He catches the furtive backward glance of the "beauty" ever on the watch to see who is watching her. He pities the embittered downward curves round the mouth of the spinster placed nowhere in the matrimonial race, or the wife who has drawn the wrong number in the sweepstakes. He frowningly marks the coarse lines with which indulgence is marking faces once bright and pretty, and the bold looks of those who have thrown away the scabbard and will snatch at excitement at society's sword-point.

A Man-Eating Tiger.

From the London World.

The Indian papers report that a man-eating tiger, which had killed thirty persons during the last three years, has been shot at Chakrata. This animal, it seems, has for the last three years been the terror of the tract of country known as Jaunsar Bawar. Indeed, for twenty-five miles beyond Deoban there is scarcely a village that has not its history of human victims. On the 13th of September, leaving his usual haunts, the tiger appeared at Deoban and killed two men close to the forest officer's garden, one body only being found. On the morning of the 15th he killed a bullock a mile and a half from Chakrata on the Deoban road. The forest officer, Mr. A. Smythies, and Colonel Fitz Roy, Fifth Fusiliers, and most of the officers in garrison then made arrangements to surround the spot where the tiger was last seen. Several soldiers also volunteered. After about two hours' beating, the tiger was "marked down" under a cliff. Nothing would persuade him to leave his cover, and it was not until a party with five or six guns advanced to the spot where he was lying that a shot was possible, Mr. Smythies drawing first blood. The tiger then bolted, receiving the fire of several rifles, and was eventually killed on the Jadi road, about 400 yards from where he was first hit. The Government reward for the tiger was 500 rupees. He was a small but very powerful animal, measuring as he lay 7 feet 8 inches from his nose to the tip of his tail.

Peculiarities of Maud S.

From the Chicago Stock Journal.

Maud S., the champion trotter of the world, is a long-bodied mare, standing fifteen hands two and a half inches high at the withers and fully sixteen inches high at the hips. Her weight, in trotting condition, is 960 pounds, and her stride, when going at her best, on a straight track, is about eighteen feet. In her great feat at Chicago, September 18, when she trotted a mile in 2:10¾, her stride, when coming down the home stretch against a high wind, was a little less than seventeen feet. She wears "shin boots" and "scalpers," and carries a fifteen-ounce shoe with a four-ounce toe weight in front, and an eight-ounce shoe behind. She is usually driven in a bridle without "blinds," but, in the trial above alluded to, a blind bridle was used. The reason for this change, as given by her driver, Mr. Bair, is, that in her trial of Thursday, September 16, when she trotted a mile in 2:11¼, he thought it best to touch her lightly with the whip when coming down the home stretch. She saw the whip lifted for the stroke and swerved from it. He then touched her on the other side to straighten her course, and another swerve, which resulted in a break, by which she lost a second of time, was the consequence. This was the first time he had ever touched her with a whip, and he argued that with "blinkers" he could do this without causing her to swerve. The result of Saturday's trial proved the correctness of his conclusions, and in her trials hereafter blinkers will always be used.

She is a mare of very strong will and it is necessary to handle her with great gentleness. A man who would fight her would soon render her entirely unmanageable. And in this she is the counterpart of her grandam Enchantress, as well as of her sire, Harold, and his full brother, Lakeland Abdallah. The old mare had the courage and resolution of a bulldog, and this quality descended to all her produce. Harold and Lakeland Abdallah both possess it to a remarkable degree, and, if they had fallen when young into gentle careful hands, as Maud S. fortunately did, it is certain they would have both been distinguished as fast trotters. Black Maria, a daughter of Enchantress, also possesses the same peculiarity of disposition. Her head is almost an exact fac simile of that of Maud S., clearly indicating that resolution, will and energy which, if carefully handled and educated, is the most valuable quality that a horse can possess, but which, if abused and perverted, makes a dangerous instead of a useful animal. It has long been a subject of remark among horsemen who are familiar with the descendants of Old Abdallah, that in the matter of endurance and strong will power, they have no superior even among the most distinguished thoroughbreds. It is no wonder, therefore, that Harold, whose sire and dam were by this famous old horse, should possess this trait, and that he should have transmitted to his daughter, Maud S.

A Feat in Pronunciation.

From the Teacher.

The following rather curious piece of composition was recently placed upon a blackboard of a teachers' institute in Vermont and a prize of a Webster's dictionary offered to any person who could read it and pronounce every word correctly. The book was not carried off, however, as twelve was the lowest number of mistakes in pronunciation made:

"A sacreligious son of Belial, who suffered from bronchitis, having exhausted his finances, in order to make good the deficit, resolved to ally himself to a comely, lenient and docile young lady of the Malay or Caucasian race. He accordingly purchased a calliope and coral necklace of the chameleon hue, and, securing a suite of rooms at a principal hotel, he engaged the head water as his coadjutor. He then dispatched a letter in the most unexceptional caligraphy extant, inviting the young lady to a matinee. She revolted at the idea, refused to consider herself sacrificeable to his desires, and sent a polite note of refusal, on receiving which he procured a carbine and a bowie knife, said that he would not now forge fetters hymeneal with the queen, went to an isolated spot, severed his jugular vein and discharged the contents of his carbine in his abdomen. The debris were removed by the coroner." The mistakes in pronunciation were made in the following words: Sacreligious, Belial, bronchitis, exhausted, finances, deficit, comely, lenient, docile, Malay, calliope, chameleon, suite, coadjutor, caligraphy, matinee, sacrificeable, carbine, hymeneal, isolated, jugular and debris.

Look at This and Then at That.

From the Petroleum World.

Miss Blanche Murray is a very proper young lady. Last week she caught her little brother smoking.

"You terrible thing," she hissed, "I am going to tell father on you."

"This is only corn silk," muttered the boy, penitently.

"I don't care what it is. I am going to tell on you, and see that you don't get into that beastly, horrid, degrading habit. I wouldn't have anything to do with smokers."

II.

It is evening. Miss Murray is sitting on the front stoop with Algernon. It is moonlight, and the redolent spirits of the honeysuckles and syringa, waft bliss to their already intoxicated souls.

"Would little birdie object to my smoking a cigarette?"

"Not at all," replied Miss Murray. "I like cigarettes. They are so fragrant and romantic. I think they are just too delicious for anything."

"Then I'll light one."

He lights a cigarette, and they talk about the weather for two hours and a half.

The Grandest Canyon in Colorado.

From the Gunnison News.

The grand canyon of the Gunnison, which begins only a short distance from town, is equal in grandeur and wildness of scenery to the canyon of the Colorado and throws the canyon of the Arkansas into the shade. It is upward of forty miles long and the mountains rise on either side to the height of upwards of 5,000 feet. As yet the trout alone traverse the cleft mountain pass. The quickest way to send or get a dispatch from the outside world is via Lake City. The time consumed between Lake City and Gunnison is one stage, or twelve hours, while a dispatch from South Arkansas requires five days to reach here, as it follows the present very circutous mail route and takes the back track to Pueblo, thence to Alamosa, Lake City and Gunnison, over 300 miles out of a direct line. Thus a dispatch sent from Denver to Gunnison, via South Arkansas, would take two days longer to reach its destination than would a letter from the same point. The Denver and Rio Grande Rail road people say they will be in Gunnison before the snow of this year covers the prairie.

Another Man Burdett-Couttsed.

From the New York Sun.

"Will you and your son occupy one room?" asked a hotel clerk of a woman of thirty-five, who arrived at Omaha with a boy of sixteen. "This is not my son," she said, with emphasis, "but my husband. We are on our bridal tour."

The twenty-mile horse-riding race between the Misses Jewett, Pinneo and Buckingham came off at Chicago, the former winning in half a second less than one hour.

RIVER NEWS.

THE Northwestern, Captain Davis, leaves for Keokuk at 4 p. m. to-day.

MESSRS. JOHN A. WOOD & SON paid $11,500 cash for the tow-boat Grand Lake.

Geo. H. Rea, president of the old barge line, returned yesterday from the East.

THE Ruker and the Durfee will leave on Saturday evening for Cario and Paducah.

JOHN C. FISHER, chief clerk of the John L. Rhodas, is still out on his Missouri farm.

THE popular Libbie Conger will leave for St. Paul this afternoon. She brought in a good trip.

THE boats building for Captains Adams and McArthur will be among the lightest draught ever built.

CAPT. JAMES NICHOLS has bought the Thos. Sherlock for $22,500 for the Cincinnati and New Orleans trade.

THE A. J. Baker is ordered to tow the resurrected Fannie Tatum to port. Tom. Morse will repair the Fannie's broken hull.

THE E. O. Standard leaves on Saturday for New Orleans. The Golden City will leave to-morrow, and Centennial Saturday.

JOHN REED, the Lower Mississippi steamboat mate, has been in the St. Louis Marine Hospital for two months, and has had a severe spell.

THE good steamer Phil. Chappell, Capt. A. S. Bryan, leaves for Missouri River this evening. Capt. Bryan is the most popular boatman of the Lower Missouri, and Jenkins is his agent.

MADISON, IND., Oct. 25.—The St. Louis railway transfer boat, just built at the Madison ship-yard for the Wiggins Company, was let down to the water's edge this evening, and will be launched to-morrow.

CINCINNATI Commercial, 26: Capt. Lovell has chartered his new steamer, Thomas D. Fite, to the Louisville Mail Line, and she left for Louisville last night in place of the Hudson. The W. N. Chancellor has also been chartered by the Louisville Mail Line.

CAPT. SAM. MCMUNN will arrive from the Ohio deestrict to-morrow. The Raven came in this morning and took out remainder of tow. She takes five barges of corn to New Orleans. Wehrman and Chapman are in town. The J. W. Garrett doesn't go south on account of a lack of barges.

JOHN D. LEWIS is the name of Capt. C. M. Lovell's new towboat lately completed by the Marine Railway, Cincinnati, for the Kanawha trade. She is 150 feet long, 23 1-2 feet beam and 4 1-2 feet hold; has three six-flued steel boilers of 70,000 pounds tensile strength, 24 feet long and 29 inches in diameter; 16 1-2 inch cylinders, 5 feet stroke. C. T. Dumont will raise steam on her Saturday.

LOUISVILLE C.-J.: The proper and only just way to treat a roustabout or deck-hand who refuses to work for a fair salary such times as these, is to kick him off your boat, and hire a man who will work for the same wages, and be glad to get it. It is time these "high-toned" darkies were being hauled down several pegs. The recent elections have made d—n fools of them, and if they keep on they'll make d—n fools of those who buy 'em for election purposes.

MEMPHIS, October 25.—The Plow Boy is insured in Kyle's Agencies for $6,000. She came out September, 1879, and cost $10,500. The accident is especially severe on her owners at this time, as she is badly needed for service in the Arkansas River during the low water season. The Maumelle, after a trip of two weeks, arrived from Arkansas this morning. Her crew were three days building a dyke at Cummings' Bar, fifty miles below Pine Bluff, to let her over. There is scant twenty inches in the channel from Pine Bluff to the mouth. Over 1,100 bales of cotton awaits tonnage at the mouth of White River, and several boats, including the Chouteau, have passed without taking any. More cotton is offering all the way from here down than boats have room for or can handle. River stationary.

NEW ORLEANS Democrat, 25th: The independent Ouachita River packet Clara S., Capt. W. Wenzel, arrived yesterday at noon, and is receiving to return Thursday. While lying at Hog Point Saturday morning taking on cotton seed, a part of the crew refused to work any longer, and went away from the boat, in consequence of which Capt. Wenzel had to leave a portion of the seed on the bank. From there on down the Clara S. had to pass no less than twenty-one hails, on account of having too few men left to handle freight. The following are the names of the men who jumped the boat: Grif. Edwards, John Wagner, Thos. Corcoran, James Taylor, Dick Willy, W. Leonard, all white, and Aleck Williams, colored. To-day Capt. Wenzel intends to go before a United States Commissioner and prefer charges of desertion against them—a move that will be watched with interest, for surely it should appear that the steamboatmen have rights that even the roustabout must respect.

CORRESPONDENCE Pittsburg Commercial: It was the Convoy that Wm. C. Ralston, the recently great California banker, was clerk of in 1847. When afterwards "he failed in business in St. Louis and lost everything," it was W. Martin, a broker in New Orleans, who loaned him $500 to go to California and join his friend Capt. Garrison. Mr. Martin was likewise unfortunate in business, and doubtless was the recipient of Mr. Ralston's grateful benefaction of $10,000 when in dire adversity. Mr. Ralston hailed from the vicinity of Wellsville, Ohio. He began his steamboat experience on the Ohio River boats. Warrick Martin and Ira B. McVay were Market street dry goods merchants on the site now occupied by the McClintock building in this city. Mr. Martin engaged in the banking business at what is now Cohen's Corner, Market street and Third avenue. Subsequently he was in the banking business in New Orleans. Later Mr. McVay established the banking house which was continued after his decease by his sons, corner of Fourth avenue and Smithfield street. Capt. Cor. K. Garrison, the New York millionaire, was a ship carpenter, and worked in the boatyard at Sharpsburg, near Pittsburg; afterwards went as carpenter on steamboats. In 1847 a wealthy St. Louis firm built the Convoy, the pioneer of great non-cabin freight boats. Mr. Garrison was promoted from carpenter to captain; his experience in the latter role lasted but one or two trips, when the Convoy was burned, without insurance, if we remember. The Captain was again dependent on his mechanical resources, and drifted to California. He is a brother of our worthy townsman, Abraham Garrison, Esq.

A Wedding at St. Patrick's Church.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Archie McKenzie and Miss Mary Lacy were united in marriage by the Rev. Father McCaffrey at St. Patrick's Church. The bride wore an elegant costume. At the conclusion of the ceremony they were driven to the bride's mother's residence, where a large number of friends visited the couple. Mrs. McKenzie was made the recipient of a number of beautiful and costly presents. Among those present were J. Grady and lady, J. Brady and lady, M. Phelan and lady, J. Currin and lady, M. Frawley and lady, M. Gallagher and lady, J. Donnelly and lady, J. McKenzie and lady, Alex. McKenzie and lady, J. Flagherty and lady, James McKenzie and lady, Misses Mary Morrisey, Mollie and Kate Murphy, Kate McGrail, Mary Adley, Mary Kane, Mrs. Finan, Mrs. Morrisey, Messrs. Peter Finan and Matt Devine and Misses Annie and Winnie Lacy.

RED flannel underwear $2 a set at "Famous."

Willie Edouin's Sparks.

Willie Edouin, Alice Atherton, Jacques Kruger, Lotta Belton, George Le Claire, Ida Shapleigh, Leslie Edmunds, Annetta Du Mare, James T. Powers, Julia Edouin, and Joseph Hogan—the above ladies and gentlemen are the "Sparks" presented by Willie Edouin for the production of his quaint and queer musical affair, "Dreams; or, Fun in a Photograph Gallery." This piece, which comes fortified with strong endorsements, is in two acts, and ripples with refined ludicrousness; but while so given up to fun, it has nevertheless a highly interesting plot, an abundance of singing, dancing and burlesque specialties, beautiful scenery and elegant costumes. "Dreams" will be given Sunday night and all next week at the Grand Opera-house.

THE largest assortment of gents' fine hand-sewed boots and shoes to be found in the city is carried by the "Famous." Every style of fashionable make known to the trade. Prices low.

AMUSEMENTS.

Olympic.

Those who were fortunate enough to attend the Olympic last evening enjoyed a rare dramatic treat. John McCullough appeared as Othello, and his sketch of the swarthy Moor was a masterpiece of histrionic art. The character of the Moor of Venice is one which McCullough has of late years made his chief study, and the result thereof is that the tragedian's Othello is undoubtedly the best to be seen to-day on the American stage. But last night, for one of those occult and unaccountable causes which are unexplainable, McCullough seemed thoroughly permeated with the sacred fire of his art, and as a consequence his acting was lighted up by vivid bursts of genius which almost seemed inspiration. We have never seen McCullough act better than he did last night, and a finer Othello we unhesitatingly say, we have never seen upon the stage. McCullough's Othello is essentially the Moor of Shakspeare's creation. He is an embodiment of the dramatist's conception, and therein differs from Salvini, whose Othello is recognized as the greatest of the present generation, and perhaps of any. But it is the Othello of Salvini and not of Shakspeare. McCullough's portraiture is that of a faithful study of the Bard of Avon, and to it he brings his varied, ripe and mature judgment and experience, which combined, result in a rugged, massive and grand picture.

The support afforded the star was exceedingly strong, and this greatly heightened the enjoyment of the students of Shakspeare. Mr. Warde's effort as the wily Iago was a splendid piece of acting, and he shared most liberally and deservedly in the honors awarded the star. Mr. Lane's Cassio was an excellent rendition of the Moor's lieutenant. Miss Forsythe as Desdemona again illustrated the rapid advance she has made in her profession, while the Emilia of Mrs. Augusta Foster was admirable. Othello will be repeated at the Saturday matinee. To-night, Virginius.

Notes.

Miss Agnes Robertson in the military drama of "Jessie Brown; or, The Relief of Lucknow" is proving a strong attraction at Pope's.

Both patrons and management are well pleased at the Theatre Comique this week. An excellent bill is presented nightly to good audiences.

The oddities and eccentricities of the "Widow Bedott" cause the Grand Opera-house to be well patronized. C. H. Bishop's "indomitable widow" is a very humorous and laughable sketch.

The Ladies of St. Louis

Will find an elegant assortment of street and dress shoes on sale at "Famous" at economical prices. "Money saved is money made," and you can do both by calling at our Ladies' Shoe Department.

Bridal Wreaths.

This evening at 9 o'clock the marriage of Miss Fannie Scherr to Mr. Will G. Purcell will be solemnized at the Church of the Advent, Twentieth and Wash streets. The bride, a handsome brunette and belle of North St. Louis, is a daughter of W. T. Scherr, who is extensively known through his connections with large milling interests of this city, and now with Geo. P. Plant & Co. The groom is editor of the Saline county Standard, Crete, Neb. Misses Emma Ure and Maggie Morrison and Messrs. Ed. Scherr and C. Brown will attend the bride and groom. After the ceremony a reception will be held at the residence of Mr. Scherr, 1505 Hebert street.

OUR BEAUTIFUL designs in ladies' gold watches are universally admired. Mermod, Jaccard & Co., Fourth and Locust.

IF you have a "son and heir" anywhere from 12 to 16 years of age, the "Famous" can clothe him in first-class style in a handsome all-wool cheviot suit for $8. Don't faint; this is a fact!

A Novel Foot-Warmer.

From the Scientific News.

The new plan devised by a French engineer for heating railway cars appears to give satisfactory results so far. It consists simply in the use for the foot-warmers of acetate of soda, a substance which has considerable latent heat, and, dissolving at a certain temperature, absurbs a large quantity of heat, which becomes sensible during crystallization in cooling. All that is required is to fill the ordinary cases with a sufficient amount of the acetate, close them, and place them in a stove at about one hundred degrees. The cooling of a case thus charged and heated takes twelve to fifteen hours. The warmers are thereafter taken from the compartments and placed in a stove, where the crystals of soda acetate are redissolved, and they are then ready for fresh use. The advantages claimed for this system are: No necessity of changing warmers every two or three hours, or of maintaining numerous employes to attend to them, also economy in cost of heating, etc.

IT will afford us much PLEASURE to show the beauty of our patterns and the low prices of our ladies' gold watches to any one INTERESTED. Mermod, Jaccard & Co., Fourth and Locust.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING.

WABASH, ST. LOUIS & PACIFIC RAILWAY CO., ST. LOUIS, MO., September 17, 1880.

A SPECIAL meeting of the stockholders of this company will be held at the office of the company at St. Louis, Mo., on Saturday, November 20, 1880, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., to act upon the following agreements made by the Board of Directors of said company.

An agreement to issue the bonds of this company to the amount of sixteen hundred thousand dollars, dated December 1, A. D. 1880, payable thirty years after date with interest at 6 per cent, payable semi-annually, and secured by mortgage upon the railroad formerly belonging to the Champaign, Havana and Western Railway Company, as required by the terms of consolidation with said company.

An agreement with the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway Company, whereby this company accepts a lease in perpetuity of the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway, and covenants to issue in payment therefor the six per cent bonds of this Company heretofore authorized and secured by its present General Mortgage, or other bonds of this Company of like tenor and effect, secured by mortgage on the said Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway, to an amount not exceeding two millions, two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; and also to issue, partly in further payment for said lease and partly in exchange for the stock of said Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway Company, the common and preferred stock of this Company to the extent of not exceeding seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars each, being an increase of the Capital Stock of this Company to that extent.

An agreement with the Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska Railroad Company, providing for the construction of the railway of said company from the present terminus of the railway of the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway Company, at Centreville, Iowa, westward to the Missouri River, the lease thereof to this company in perpetuity of said railway; and the payment therefore by this company in 6 per cent bonds of this company, now issued and secured by its general mortgage, or in other bonds of like tenor and effect, secured by mortgage on the railroad of said Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska Railroad Company.

The said agreement provides also for the exchange of the capital stock of the Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska Railroad Company for the capital stock of this company, upon terms therein defined, being an increase of the preferred and common stock of this company to an amount not exceeding seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars each.

An agreement with the Attica, Covington and Southern Railway Company of Indiana, for the construction of the railway of that company for the lease of the same in perpetuity to this company.

An agreement for the construction of an extension of the railway formerly owned by the Champaign, Havana and Western Railway Company from Havana, Illinois, to Quincy, Illinois, and payment for the same by the issue of bonds of this company secured by its general mortgage, to an amount not exceeding fifteen thousand dollars per mile of such constructed road.

An agreement between this company and the Great Western Railway Company of Canada, for carrying the traffic of this company over the railway of that company during a term of years, upon terms therein defined.

An agreement between this company, the New York, Lackawanna and Western, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, securing to this company certain rights of traffic over the railroads of the two companies last named.

An agreement between this company and the Chicago and Western Indiana Railroad Company, providing for the lease by that company to this company of certain terminal facilities in the city of Chicago, and the guarantee by this company of the bonds of that company, bearing interest equal to the rental named in said agreement.

An agreement for the construction of a branch of the Chicago Division of the Railway of this company, commencing at a point near the intersection of the Mazon River with said railway, and extending westward through the Braidwood coal region to a connection with the Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railway at Washington, Illinois. The construction of such branch railroad to be paid for in bonds secured by the general mortgage of this company, to an amount not exceeding fifteen thousand dollars per mile.

An agreement with the "Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific R'y Co. of Nebraska," for the construction of the railroad of said Company in Nebraska and the transfer of said railroad to this Company by lease or consolidation, as the Stockholders of this Company may determine.

THERE is no doubt about Mr. Allen's election in the Second District. Mr. Rosenblatt will be buried by a majority of at least 3,000 votes.

GRANT, the professional presider at Republican meetings, says that it is the Tariff that is sweeping the country for Garfield. This is news. We thought it was the magic name of Grant that was doing the business.

NOTWITHSTANDING the pressure brought to bear upon Marshal Coste, the Democrats of St. Louis will have fifty per cent of the deputy marshals next Tuesday—one in each election precinct. Mr. Coste deserves credit for his firmness as well as his fairness.

IT WOULD seem that Gen. Grant was premature, so to speak, when he congratulated the detective who captured and pilloried the dastard forger of the Garfield Chinese letter. The General should withdraw his remarks at once, or the able detective may swell with pride and explode.

HORACE MAYNARD has been pointing out to the citizens of Memphis the dire calamities which would follow a change of administration in this Republic governed by parties. Maynard has been in office twenty-two consecutive years, and a change at this time would probably break his heart.

THE reorganized Democratic Dark Lantern Association in the Second District is suffering from internal discord. The Knapps took a lively interest in the outset, but the venerable George has withdrawn from active participation, and the supposition is that he has joined his sons, who are working like beavers to elect Rosenblatt, in return for the little clerkship.

STANLEY MATTHEWS, an Ohio man who served in the U. S. Senate for a brief period as a railway attorney, has been brought to St. Louis to enlighten our people on politics. Mr. Matthews belongs the modern Ohio school, and, if Garfield is elected, will assist in parceling out the offices in such a way as to make the Missouri Republicans wish that they had never moved west.

A DISPATCH from Indianapolis to the Louisville Courier-Journal notes the arrival there of ten Chinamen. Before the week is out the country will be overrun with the slimy Mongolians. Already the Asiatic hordes are rushing down to the shores of Quang Tong demanding passage to the free Republic which proclaims the brotherhood of man. Garfield's letter is doing the business.

THE talented Democratic son of the Hon. George Knapp, bred in the school of Jefferson and trained in the tenets of Calhoun, is now working openly to elect Rosenblatt to Congress in the Second District. By simply appointing this valuable citizen to a clerkship in the Collector's office, Rosenblatt not only secured his assistance as a ward worker but drove a plug into the Republican which has made it as silent as a sphynx touching his practices.

MR. HAYES is rushed for time in his return from his electioneering tour to the Pacific coast. He is struggling to get home to vote next Tuesday and it is thought now that he will be able to stop in St. Louis and "receive a reception." Very well. It is important that Hayes should get home on time and cast his ballot for Garfield. The town of Fremont, his home, showed a Republican loss of three on the 13th, and unless he can restore the Republican vote to its former proportions he will be suspected of selfish and unpatriotic indifference.

WE proposed a few days ago to reproduce any matter that our disesteemed contemporary, the Republican, might publish inimical to Mr. Rosenblatt, the Republican nominee for Congress in the Second District. This morning the old stern-wheeler prints on the rear of its editorial page a document prepared by the Democratic committee showing up Rosenblatt's record in a mild way. It is a paid advertisement, and is published in a perfunctory way. We can't take any notice of advertisements.

THAT eminent Ohio politician, Ben. Eggleston, has discovered the forger of the Garfield letter again. He is now an humble newspaper man in the obscure town of Toledo. Mr. Eggleston, who is an expert in spelling and writing, was first induced to suspect the genuineness of the letter on account of its clumsy style and limping orthography. It is creditable to the journalistic fraternity that all the great detectives insist on locating the wicked forger in a newspaper office.

MR. GARFIELD goes on denying the fatherhood of those "brutal sentiments" in the alleged Chinese Labor letter, and his organs howl frantically about the forgery, but, as a calm and dispassionate member of the jury, we must remark that not a particle of evidence has yet been brought forward to prove that Garfield didn't write it. As we have already said, there is a fishy odor about the letter, but a mere denial on the part of Garfield will not shake public faith in its genuineness.

REBELLION in Afghanistan has again broken out. The Ameer is reported murdered and anarchy once more reigns in Cabul. The wild tribes are taking to the hills and England will again have a chance of amusing herself with a foreign war. The Afghans appear to be singularly obtuse in the matter of seeing the benefits and blessings of British domination, and the Briton, with the persistent philosophy which has made him master of half the world, will argue the question frankly and forcibly with field batteries and improved rifles. A new puppet will be put upon the throne in Cabul, and then, as we say in the orchestra, da capo. As an outlet for enterprise and as a military training school Afghanistan is simply invaluable to England, but outside of these two considerations it costs more than it comes to.

THE average New Yorker is a very thoughtful person. He hates to make trouble and to put people out, and can generally display a delicate consideration for the feelings of others which is a credit to our common nature. Mr. Frederick J. Vogell carried this Gothamite feeling out to the sublimest limit when he went right up to the Morgue to commit suicide. He had taken the precaution to have money enough on his person to pay his funeral expenses, to designate where he wished to be buried, and to give the whys and wherefores of what only the exigencies of language will justify us in calling his rash act. Mr. Vogel's thoughtfulness should be imitated by felo-de-ses throughout the land. Courtesy of this kind should not be found only in New York.

THE railway accident record for September shows a considerable increase upon the same month last year. There were forty-six more accidents this year than last, which shows a move in the right direction. What with political excitement reigning through the country and the large movement of population into Indiana during September, the only wonder is that there were not more. Altogether there were one hundred and twenty-four casualties, in which fifteen persons were killed and fifty-four injured. The railway accident statistics have been reduced to a fine point, and predictions can now be made with striking accuracy as to their number and description. It would tend a little to the peace of mind of the floating population of this country if a little more time was put in figuring out a way to reduce these numbers and not so much in classifying them.

SOME newspapers prefer to have their lies sent to them by telegraph at an expense of two cents a word, instead of manufacturing them for little or nothing at home. The G.-D. prints this morning the following thrilling dispatch from its North Carolina Ananias:

CHARLOTTE, N. C., October 26.—A strange and fatal accident occurred in a church in Rock Hill last night. The collection plate was being passed around, an earnest exhortation having been made for money to help the Christian cause. James Gooch, a young man in the congregation, did not have a cent, and being moved by the minister's appeal he attempted to borrow ten cents from a man next to him. The man refused. Gooch then took a pistol from his pocket and offered it as collateral. The man took the pledge, and while examining it the weapon went off, sending a ball through the brain of Gooch, killing him instantly.

We have late advices from Rock Hill which indicate that the sender of this telegram left the scene of the tragedy too soon. The pistol pawned by Gooch for ten cents was one of the old-fashioned kind with no stopper for the cock to rest upon, and the wadding from it set fire to a lady sitting directly behind him. Before the flames could be extinguished the church was set on fire and the congregation was entirely consumed. During the attempt of the neighbors from the surrounding country to extinguish the flames an old feud broke out among the Dodson and Chambers families and a fight with pistols and guns took place which lasted thirty-six hours and resulted in the death of nearly eight hundred of the leading citizens of Jasper county. The concussion of the battle brought on a terrific storm of wind and rain which killed and drowned 2,000 persons. The population of the county has been so thinned out by these untoward events that it is doubtful whether any election will be held within twenty miles of Rock Hill next Tuesday.

THE bride's father's check for $100,000 was one of the most prominently-displayed gifts at a recent San Francisco wedding, and a great many people took the piece of paper reverently up and hefted it, and thought how that little slip of parchment represented more than the accumulations of the lifetime of thousands of toiling men. They wondered what the bride would do with it, and envied her all the enjoyment she would have out of it, when the cashier of the bank named on the check happened along and explained that the old gentleman didn't have more than $500 to his credit in the vaults. Then the enthusiasm ever that piece of paper subsided to a remarkable degree.

A MAN named Robert Jones has written a note to the editor of the Cincinnati Commercial to say that he wrote the Garfield Chinese letter. We know Mr. Jones very well, and though we violate confidence when say it, we cannot refrain from remarking that he is the identical man who kidnaped Charlie Ross and killed Mr. Nathan. We have his confession written in chirography imitative of the MS. of the author of the Junius letters.

A DISPATCH from Ireland says that the vision of the Virgin at Father Ignatius' Abbey, about which there has been so much speculation, turns out to be nothing but a reflection from a window. The cures attributed to the mysterious agency of the vision are therefore a sham, and Father Ignatius' monks are in an unpleasant frame of mind.

THE General Count von Moltke declined to be made a Prince on his eightieth birthday, as the Emperor wished. He stated that he had left so many foot-prints on the sands of time already that one more or less couldn't make any difference.

THE Prince and Princess of Wales have been complimenting Modjeska, the actress, in London. She is a Countess, you know, and the big swells have to stick together.

THE St. Louis Gas Company is evidently experimenting. Perhaps it is trying to make gas out of a mixture of fire-clay and charcoal.

A MAN who couldn't tell a stock dividend from a loan might be depended on, it strikes us, to mis-spell the plural of "company."

ROSENBLATT only pays a small clerkship for the favor of the Republican's silence; but then the favor doesn't amount to much.

A POSTPONED SALE.

Because Nobody Would Bid on the Masonic Hall Building.

On behalf of the Life Association of America Insurance Commissioner W. S. Reife made an attempt this noon to sell the Masonic Hall building, on the northwest corner of Seventh and Market streets. But it was useless. Although the building is a very fine one and its sale had been well advertised, yet no bidders appeared in response to the sonorous calls of Judge Phil. S. Lanham, who officiated as auctioneer. The sale was advertised for 12 o'clock, but owing to the non-appearance of either the crowd or the auctioneer did not begin until 12:30. There were then present some half dozen real estate agents, two or three brokers, a lot of accidentals who, in passing, were attracted by the red flag, and nearly all the small boys of the neighborhood. Mr. Jos. T. Donovan, on behalf of Mr. Reife, stood up before the sniv-ering, blue-nosed crowd and read the advertisement and order of sale. The property was offered subject to a lien of $140,000 at eight per cent per annum, secured by deed of trust, and due June 1, 1884. The only other claim upon the property is for two years' taxes. The rental derived from the whole building for the past year was $11,000, or something less than the interest on the $140,000 of bonds. After this had been duly explained, Judge Lanham put on one of his widest October smiles and announced that bidding was in order. He entreated the cold crowd to bid; he waved one of his crutches and grew tremulous in his effort to secure a bid. He finally offered to loan Theo. Papin a dollar to make a bid with, but that gentleman declined, saying he didn't want to pay the interest on the bonds. Just as the sale was going to be postponed Mr. James Hazard, of the firm of Hazard & Wilson, coal dealers, came along and was persuaded to put in a bid of $10,000. He had not heard the terms of the sale, and when he learned of the $140,000 lien he quickly withdrew his bid. This knocked the props out from under Judge Lanham, and the sale was announced as postponed to noon of January 10, 1881, at the main entrance of the building. Among those present to-day were Theo. Papin, Eugene Benoist, Wm. C. Little, Jno. D. Vincil, Sam Semple, and Messrs. Bulkley, Crane, Wilson and Donovan.

Coming Nuptials.

Mr. Albert D. Cunningham and Miss Georgia C. Lee will be married to-morrow evening at 6:30 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Tibbetts, No. 1104 Morrison avenue. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. C. E. Felton. The wedding will be a private one, only a few of the most intimate friends of the parties having been invited. It is rumored that the wedding presents are very elegant and recherche. The couple are two of our best known singers, and it is to be hoped their union will not deprive the public of their voices. The wishes of their friends are that the music of the waves of their sea of life will ever be soft and sweet, with not a jar or false note to mar the harmony of their lives.

Census Committee of "Thirty."

A meeting of the Committee of "Thirty" will be held to morrow (Thursday) at No. 321 N. Third street, at 4 p. m., for important business. It is desirable that every member shall be on hand.

Chairman.

ABOUT TOWN.

THE second party of the season of "The Parisienne" takes place at the North St. Louis Turner Hall to-night.

THE gold-headed cane put up at St. Malachi's Church festival to be voted to the most popular candidate for Congress in the Second District was last evening awarded to M. A. Rosenblatt. The church realized $586 from the sale of votes.

THE ninth annual ball of the Ancient Order of Hibernians takes place to-night at St. Patrick's Hall, Seventh and Biddle streets. The Committee of Arrangements is as follows: John Cummings, John L. Cunningham, Patrick Kerns, M. McNamara, Thos. Tuffy, M. O'Kief, M. Lanigan, Thos. J. B. Kelly; L. P. Murphy, musical director.

A CLUB was organized last evening at the northwest corner of Twenty-fourth and Biddle streets, of young and old men, all voters, to the number of twenty-five, their object being to cast one solid vote on next Tuesday, November 2, for their favorite candidates, irrespective of party, to be chosen at their next meeting, Friday evening, October 29, at 8 o'clock sharp at the same place, and they expect to swell their membership to the number of seventy-five or more.

CITY HALL NOTES.

The Board of Public Improvements this morning awarded the contract to complete the Eleventh street Engine-house to Chas. Hahn for $2,195. H. Hussman, Jr., bid $2,650, and Kerr and Allan $2,730.

The Board of Charity Commissioners this morning officially notified the Mayor that they had examined into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Marcella Coffin, and found that the statements published in regard to it were in no particular true.

Legal Brevities.

The law docket will be called in Circuit Court No. 5 next Friday.

In the case of Henshaw vs. Henshaw a default was entered to-day, the defendant failing to appear.

The courts never have been as dull as at present for years. Lawyers are attending more to politics than to legitimate business.

The petition to open Meramee street from Grand avenue to Gravois road will be heard in court room No. 1 on Monday, November 8. A number of witnesses living on Meramee street have been summoned.

No action was taken in the Keokuk Northern Line Packet Company suit to-day. The attorneys for plaintiffs have not yet completed the decree, but will probably have it ready by to-morrow. The receiver will then be appointed and it is probable the defense will move for a new trial, or take an appeal.

A Child Kicked by a Horse.

Oscar Hoffman, a child living at No. 408 Spruce street, was running after a cat when he stumbled and fell against a horse owned by William Decker. The horse kicked the child, throwing him several feet and inflicting a cut over the right eye one and a half inches long. It is not known whether he sustained any internal injuries or not.

STANLEY MATTHEWS.

The Ex Senator from Ohio Admits that California and Nevada are Doubtful,

But Thinks that New York Will Give 25,000 Majority for Garfield.

Ex-United States Senator Stanley Matthews, of Ohio, arrived in the city last evening and is at the Lindell Hotel. This evening he delivers a speech at Armory Hall under the auspices of the Union League. He was waited upon at his hotel this morning by Gen. John S. Cavender, Capt. Pearce, Postmaster Hays and W. S. Patrick, of the League, and by D. P. Dyer and other leading Republicans of the city. A POST-DISPATCH reporter called upon the Senator and was pleasantly received, and enjoyed a chat of a half hour. The Senator made some inquiries as to local politics. He was surprised to learn that the negro vote did not exceed 3,500. He thought that it was much larger. He was gratified to learn how eagerly the children of colored people embraced opportunities to acquire an education. Through the schools the race could alone be elevated, and the way to the school-house crowded by little children was a much pleasanter sight than the way to the polls crowded by ignorant men. Talking about Missouri, the efforts being made to induce immigration into the State were detailed by the reporter, Mr. Matthews examined a copy of the Missouri Handbook and pronounced it a superior publication, the general distribution of which would do much to remove existing impressions about the State in the East. "What," asked the Senator "is there in common between Missouri and the Southern States that makes her part of the solid South? She does not raise the staples of the South. She is a mineral State in the South and an agricultural State in the North." The reporter could not answer this question, but called attention to the fact that Missouri was a slave State before the war, that she raised 75,000 bales of cotton each year, and that St. Louis handles 500,000 bales annually of the Southern staple. In the matter of business relations Missouri is certainly a part of the South.

Naturally the conversation drifted to national politics. Mr. Matthews stated that he had not been out of Ohio during the campaign, which previous to the October elections was one of the most exciting in the history of politics.

"What majority do you anticipate Ohio will give Garfield next Tuesday?"

"Between thirty five thousand and forty thousand."

"So much as that?"

"Yes, the backbone of the party was broken in October, and they have not the spirit left to make a fight. John G. Thompson, Senator Thurman's son-in-law, who managed the canvas, is completely disheartened."

"What about Indiana? You know that Mr. English claims that the State will go Democratic when the outside influences are removed."

"Mr. English is surely mistaken. In my opinion, and it is well grounded, the State will give the Garfield electors a majority of about 12,000."

"And Illinois?"

"Illinois is as safe as Kansas."

"Trumbull is making a very gallant fight for Governor."

"True, and he will run ahead of his ticket, but not too far."

"You have not been in New York, you say, but you have heard from there."

"Yes, I have heard from a number of sources, and I give my opinion upon those statements that New York will go Republican by 25,000."

"You don't consider California safe, do you?"

"I do not consider California safe for anything. It is a doubtful State. So is Nevada on account of the senatorial fight."

"Gen. Garfield's attitude on the silver question has made him unpopular out there?"

"True, but it is not that, but the local issues involved in the senatorial fight, that make me dubious about Nevada—"

"And Colorado?"

"No; I was talking to a gentleman from Denver last evening, and he says that Colorado will surely go Republican."

"Do you think the alleged Garfield Chinese letter will have much effect in the campaign?"

"Yes, I do. It is such a clumsy and palpable forgery that it will react disastrously upon the Democratic party. Did you ever hear of a more ridiculous thing? That one word 'conserved' ought to be enough to expose the fraud. The idea of Gen. Garfield using such a word!"

"You are then satisfied of Republican success next week, are you?"

"Perfectly satisfied."

"Many Democrats are in hopes that the Republican party will be defeated this fall. It would then drop out of existence. The Democratic Conservatives would naturally fall from the Bourbon element, and a new and strong party representing the best elements North and South would be naturally formed."

"No, I don't believe in that. I think the result would be easier attained by Republican success this fall, for after that I don't believe I would care so much."

This remark brought to the reporter's mind the fact that Mr. Matthews was a prominent leader in the Liberal Republican movement of 1872. He attended the Cincinnati Convention and voted for Charles Francis Adams. After Horace Greeley was nominated he bolted the Liberals and returned to the Republican party. Mr. Matthews was at that time a tariff reformer and free trader and he refused to support Greeley because he was an avowed protectionist. The reporter was about to ask Mr. Matthews how his views on the tariff question had undergone such a violent change, when Col. D. P. Dyer and several members of the Union League came into the room and opened up a fusillade of small political talk. The reporter lingered for a few moments, feeling like a poor boy at a frolic, and then bowed himself out.

THE FISH COMMISSIONERS.

Pisciculture in Missouri—A Talk With Col. Reid and Gov. Woodson.

Col. John Reid, of Lexington, and ex-Gov. Silas Woodson, of St. Joe, who constitute two-thirds of the State Board of Fish Commissioners, are in the city to-day on fish business. Gen. Ewing, the other member of the board, did not come down. This afternoon Messrs. Woodson and Reid were out at Forest Park seining for carp in the central pond. Last fall they put into this pond about 400 carp, and last spring about as many more. Since then no examination has been made to see how the fish prospered. If they are found to-day to be as thrifty as they ought to be, a portion of them will be removed to St. Joseph to the new hatchery there, and a few will be distributed to private parties throughout the State who have asked for them from the Commissioner. It is by no means certain that these carp have done as well at Forest Park as was expected. There are rumors that muskrats have flourished in the park greatly this year and that they have been regular hunters of carp. Some time ago some traps were put into the pond to catch the muskrats, and probably the carp have enjoyed life better since. The commission has labored under very serious difficulty in this State since its organization from the lack of artificial hatching facilities. But now a hatchery has just been completed at St. Joseph at an expense of $2,000, which will be ample for all time to come. The land for this hatchery was donated by St. Joe. A pool forty feet by twenty has been formed right at the mouth of a fine spring. Two hundred thousand California salmon eggs are now hatching in this pool. They will be ready for general distribution throughout the State about the first of January. In general the commissioners has distributed more fish in the waters of the Southwestern portion of the State than elsewhere. Several hundred thousand shad and brook trout have been thus distributed in the past year. Generally these have done well. Gov. Woodson and Mr. Reid will remain in town for a couple of days and talk fish to all who desire.

NO ALARM.

Fire Discovered at No. 909 Mound Street for the Third Time.

About 11:10 o'clock fire was discovered in the cellar of No. 909 Mound street, a house owned by Thomas Miller and J. J. Riley and occupied by John Cooper and family. A still alarm was given Engine Company No. 9, but the flames were extinguished before the engines arrived. This is the third time that fire has been discovered on these premises, and every occasion was attended by very suspicious circumstances. Last night the fire originated in a sack of shavings and kindling wood. A few weeks ago a blaze was discovered among some old clothes.

SARAH SALUTED.

Bernhardt Welcomed on Her Arrival in New York.

Description of the Great Artiste's Appearance—Details of Her Reception.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, October 27.—Sarah Bernhardt, the queen of the stage, was welcomed to America to day by a distinguished company of journalists, actors, painters and sculptors, who went down the bay in the early morn to meet the steamship Amerique. They were welcomed by Capt. Joncia and his first officer and invited into the cabin. In response to an inquiry for the fair Sarah, a blonde-bearded gentleman who guarded her state-room door, which, partly closed, revealed the curious eye of Mademoiselle's maid peeping through the crimson curtains, stated it was impossible at that early hour, as Mlle. Bernhardt

NEVER REVEALED HERSELF BEFORE IN THE MORNING.

Louis De Bebian reconciled the company to their disappointment by urgent invitation to breakfast. After some time had been spent very agreeably by the majority, the noise of voices, the cloop of champagne corks and the cries of "Garcon" suddenly ceased as Mr. Janet, Bernhardt's private agent, appeared leading his fair charge, the object of this flattering ovation. At once the tables were deserted and Bernhardt became the center of a thousand curious and admiring glances. Warmly greeting Abbey, De Bebian, and a few personal friends, she took the seat of honor at the head of the table.

HER TOUT ENSEMBLE.

The appearance of the artiste was a surprise to most on board. A slight, willowy form, robed in seal kins. A face of classic purity of out line shaded by a "Bernhardt" hat with a biro of paradise and ostrich feathers; large deep blue eyes shaded by long dark silken lashes with the silvery misty brightness that Sir Walter Scott likened to the dew of a May violet; a fall of wavy, fluffy light golden hair, just shading into red, and a complexion of most transparent brilliancy are the most striking characteristics of this wonderful woman's tout ensemble. Her manner is strikingly graceful and unaffected, her voice of wonderful sweetness and clearness. Bernhardt was formally welcomed by the President of the Cercle Artistique Francais, to which welcome she made in French the following response:

HER SPEECH.

"Gentlemen—I am greatly moved at the reception that I find among you. So much so that I can but express my thanks. All that I can do is to assure you that I will do all that I can to justify the enthusiasm you have shown me and I believe I will succeed. I had prepared a very nice phrase to address you but I am too much moved. Thanks, thanks."

At the wharf Mlle. Bernhardt descended from the vessel on the arm of De Bebian, after taking an affectionate leave of her fellow passengers and associates, while the band played "The Bells Go Ringing for Sarah," and the enthusiastic multitude sent up three hearty cheers for the artiste. After a short detention by the custom house officials over some hand baggage, she was whirled away in Manager Abbey's cab to her rooms at the Albermarle, where she retired for needed rest and refreshment.

THE BERNHARDT LANDS.

NEW YORK, October 27.—Sarah Bernhardt was given a formal welcome to this country by the President of the Cercle Artistique, who with a number of other gentlemen went down the bay to meet the steamer. Many persons were on the wharf anxious to see the famous artist, and in front of the hotel where Bernhardt is lodged groups of people stand and stare at the window.

On 'Change.

Beerbohm—Liverpool spot wheat firmly held; cargoes unchanged. Private cables say the market closes with more steadiness.

On November 1 rail freights will be advanced on packed bacon, cracklins, beef in barrels or tierces, grease, packed hams, packed or bulk pigs' feet, pickled pork in barrels, sausage, canned do, casings in packages, stearine in barrels or tierces and tallow, on basis of forty cents per 100 pounds from Chicago to New York, which is an advance of six cents per 100 pounds from this point to New York. At same time meats salted, and in bulk per car-load will be put up to basis of forty-five cents per 100 pounds from Chicago to New York, and lumber and tenth class on basis of thirty-five cents per 100 pounds.

A private telegram received to-day stated that the deficiency in French crops was larger than at first reported.

Chicago advices were in effect that scalpers were doing more toward keeping wheat up to-day than anything else, several of the heaviest operators of that stripe having yesterday purchased calls on the market, and doing their best to bull prices so they could get out.

A late New York telegram reported the close of No. 2 red winter wheat at 1 p. m. as $1 asked, with no buyers, as exporters were out of the market.

The Markets.

MORNING BOARD.

Flour slow and rather dragging, but no change in price for the worse. We quote: Fancy $5 25@5 60; choice $4 90@5 15; family $4 70@4 85; xxx $4 30@4 55; xx $3 70@3 95; x $3 40@3 55; superfine $3 20@3 35; fine $2 70@2 90.

Wheat—A rather firm feeling prevailed early, with sales at advances, but market dull and operators indifferent; subsequently unfavorable advices drew all the stiffening out, and prices eased off rapidly, closing weak and below yesterday. Trade No. 2 red went chiefly to speculators at from $1 to 99⅜c; Eastern shippers bought sparingly of No. 3 red at 94½@94c and of No. 4 at 88⅜@87¼, but at close the best bid for No. 3 this side was 93½; rejected sold at 83; Mediterranean under a good demand and was better, at 98 for No. 2 and 93 for No. 3. Futures were really dull, sales being few, small, and far between: November at $1 00⅜ to $1 00⅛@¼; December at $1 04 to $1 03⅜; year at 99⅜; January at $1 05⅜@⅝ to $1 05⅜.

Corn—This market also displayed considerable strength during the early hour, and fractional advances were obtained, but weakened with wheat, and was lower at the close. No. 2 mixed sold at 39⅞@39⅝c, speculators getting most; No. 2 white mixed run down from 39⅜c to 39⅜c, exporters buying at the bottom and millers and order dealers at 39⅞@39⅜c; rejected do was salable at 38⅜, and rejected in St. Louis at 34½, except May, which sold fairly early at 44, but 43⅞ the best bid at close. Futures ruled dull, October selling at 39⅞—later 39 best bid; November at 39⅞ to 39⅞@⅛; December 39⅜, closing at 39⅜ bid; year 39⅜ to 39⅜; January at 39⅜ to 39⅜.

Oats—Broke completely down, although there was a faint show of strength early, but after the decline in corn was established, this market followed suit and prices were lower all around. Grade No. 2 sold at 29 to 28⅝ in St. Louis and dull at that; No. 2 white offered at 30⅛c without a buyer; rejected was salable in St Louis at 28c, but that asked in Venice and unsold. In futures there was light trading at 29⅛@⅜ to 29⅝ for November and at 30⅜ for December, but 30⅛@⅜ bid later for latter month, while 28½ was bid for October, 29 for year, 31½ for January and 34⅛ for May.

Barley—Unchanged. Demand good for best grades; all else dull. We quote: Rejected, 55; No. 3, 60@65; prime, 75@80; choice, 85@90; fancy, 95c@$1; Canada, $1 05@1 07.

Rye—Grade No. 2 was strong, under a more pronounced demand, a round lot and several cars selling at 83c; rejected sold at 78c.

Hay—Choice and fancy strong and in demand; lower qualities quiet and not so stiff. We quote: Prairie $10@11; mixed $13@14; prime timothy $14 50@15; choice do $15 50@16; fancy do $16 50.

Mill feed bran scarce, but slow at 61@65c at city mills.

Provisions showed little life, but prices were about the same, although weak. Pork was offered f. o. b. East side at $15 35, and not worth over $15 regular. Lard nominal at 7.70c. Bacon was slow, as there was but a small demand, and sales were of little lots at 5.20@5⅜c for shoulders, 8⅝c for clear ribs, 8.80@8⅞c for short clear. Dry salt meats were wanted, but none offering; nominal at 4.90c for shoulders, 7.65c for clear ribs, 7.85c for short clear. Twenty-five day clear ribs sold at 7.60c. Tallow 5⅛@5⅞c, according to quality. Breakfast bacon 10@11c. Grease, 3⅞@4⅜c for brown, 4⅛@5c for yellow, 5⅛@5⅜c for white. Beef—Extra mess $12 per brl; prime mess $9 50 per brl; family $7 per half-brl; dried 9⅜@10c per lb. Fresh smoked tongues $4 75@5 per doz. Salt $1 25@1 30 for domestic.

AFTERNOON BOARD.

Wheat—Stronger; December sold at $1 03⅜ and January at $1 05¼. Bids of 99⅛c cash and year, 99⅜c October, $1 00⅛ November.

Corn—Firm and better. Sales of October at 39⅛, November at 39⅞ to 39⅜. December at 39⅜. May at 44. Bids of 29 for cash and year and 29⅛@⅜ January.

Oats—Sales of October at 28⅞; cash salable at 28⅜; November at 29⅜; December at 30½; year at 28⅞; May at 34⅞.

CATTLE—Although the offerings were fair, the quality, however, was not of the best, and this in a measure had the effect of preventing activity. Eastern shippers and exporters were almost entirely ruled out of the market. The prospects ahead are not very flattering for a large run. On Thursday, the opening day of our review, the demand was fair and for all grades above common, while the run was small and mainly of mixed butchers' stuff. All classes of buyers were present and an active market would have ensued had the offerings proved fair and of desirable quality. Grass Texans in light supply and all offered found ready sale and brought from $2 50@3 10 ⅌ 100 lbs. Common to fair native cows slow at $2 25@3; stock and feeding steers in better demand, but still slow, and sales can be effected only at low prices. Shippers were ruled out of the market altogether on account of the scarcity of good shipping steers. Friday but few buyers were in attendance and none of them manifested much desire to operate, and were not greatly disappointed at the scant offerings. The buyers of the canning companies, a few interior shippers and a like number of local speculators were about all the buyers on hand. Eastern shippers did not show much life. Certainly if there had been some good native steers in they would have found sale, but the reports from New York were not very flattering to the buying interests. Stock and feeding steers slow and unchanged. By the hour of noon the pens were about cleared of stock. Milch cows with calves scarce and wanted. Saturday, fair supply for the closing day of the calendar week, but the quality not very good. The tanners and local speculators took a few lots at unchanged prices. Taken all in all there was but little doing and prices were weak to say the least. Shippers were out of the market, stock and feeding steers slow and unchanged. Monday there was a fair degree of activity and a goodly number changed hands. Offerings fair for the opening day of the week, but comprised almost exclusively of grass and wintered Texans. All classes of buyers were present and all had large orders to fill. Local speculators, the canners and interior shippers made liberal purchases, taking the above named grades without much ado, and paid, all things considered, pretty steady prices. Eastern shippers were ruled out of the market, as there were no good native shipping steers offered. Demand fair and shippers were disappointed. Tuesday fair to good butchers' stuff in light supply, and steady inquiry; consequently local speculators and the canners had to curtail their operations considerably. The attendance of the different classes of buyers quite large, and an active market would have ensued had the offerings proved ample and of desirable grades. Good butcher and prime and fancy native shipping steers were the grades in demand. Eastern shippers were ruled out of the market altogether for want of stock. Wednesday, October 27th, the supply light and altogether of mixed butchers' stuff, which found ready sale and brought strong prices. The demand from all classes of buyers was quite urgent and for all grades above common. Outside of this there is nothing new to note. Ruling quotations steady.

HOGS—Prices have been steadily declining since our last review up to within a day or two, when a change for the better occurred. Offerings were quite large and of all grades. Values will not advance much. On Thursday there was but little doing. Offerings were quite large and of all grades, while the demand was limited. Buyers were slow in making offers, and awaited developments. There was a glut in Chicago, and the reports from all points were bad, which puts the market in a bad fix. Yorkers were bringing $4 30@4 40; mixed packing $4 25@4 40; butchers and select $4 40@4 60. Transactions light. Friday offerings were large and of all grades. Shippers entered the market and obtained concessions of 5@10c per 100 lbs, they paying for Yorkers $4 20@4 35 with the bulk of sales at $4 20@4 25; mixed packing were slow at $4 20@4 40, good heavy 4 30@4 60. Rough and green dull and unsalable. The supply exceeded the demand. Transfers fair. Saturday receipts light, yet ample enough to meet all requirements. Shippers took some good light shipping bunches at $4 20@4 30; mixed packing slow at $4 15@4 35; butcher and select $4 40@4 60. Monday slow and moderate transfers were made; offerings light, yet notwithstanding this, declines of 10c per 100 lbs on all grades were in order. Yorkers brought from $4 15@4 20; mixed packing $4 00@4 30; butchers and select $4 40@4 50; rough mixed and green hogs $3 50@3 75 to $3 90. Tuesday offerings were small, about sixty car loads in all, and of all grades. Sellers tried to obtain slight advances on their stock, which buyers were loth in paying; as a result business was slow and but moderate transfers were made. Shippers paid from $4 15@4 25 for Yorkers and Baltimores with bulk of sales at $4 15@4 20; mixed packing were slow at $4 15@4 25; heavy and butcher hogs quiet at $4 40@4 55; common and grown hogs dull. Wednesday the supply was scant and the feeling a little better all round and by the hour of noon the pens were cleared of hogs at advances of 10c ⅌ 100 lbs on all grades. Yorkers and Baltimores $4 20@4 35; mixed packing $4 20@4 35; butcher and select $4 40@4 55; culls $3 50@3 90.

SHEEP—As the supply was small the past week, only local speculators and butchers could operate. Shippers wanted good and prime mutton grades, but could not pay the strong prices that butchers did. Lambs were scarce. Values steady.

Quote choice to extra $3 75 to $4; fair to good $3 25 to $3 75; medium to fair $3 to $3 25. Stock sheep $2 50@2 75. Scabby natives and Texas stockers not wanted. Lambs $1 50 to $3 per head.

Horses and Mules.

This particular branch of the live stock market ruled slow the past week and the moderate supply slow in going off. Mules especially dull. The epizootic has some effect upon the market.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, Patrick Clinton and Bridget Clinton, his wife, by their certain deed of trust dated the 27th day of March, A. D. 1871, and recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for the city (formerly county) of St. Louis, in book 419 at page 454, conveyed to the undersigned as trustee, the following described lot or parcel of ground lying and being situated in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, to wit: Lot numbered seventeen (17) in block numbered five (5) of the "Market street and Chouteau avenue subdivision of the Auguste Chouteau tract" according to plat of said subdivision recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for the city (formerly county) of St. Louis; said lot fronting twenty-five (25) feet on the north side of Cozzens street and being one hundred and thirty-five (135) feet deep to an alley twenty feet wide; which said conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of five notes (one principal and four interest notes) in said deed described; and whereas default has been made in the payment of said principal note, long past due, together with the interest thereon; now therefore, in accordance with the provisions of said deed of trust, and at the request of the legal holder of said note, I will proceed to sell the above described real estate at the east front door of the Court-house in the city of St. Louis, and State of Missouri, to the highest bidder for cash, at public auction, on SATURDAY, THE 20TH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1880, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, to satisfy said note and interest thereon, together with the costs and expenses of executing this trust.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, by deed of trust dated July 31, 1876, of record in the office of the Recorder of Deeds within and for the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, in book 556, at page 141, William B. Field and Hattie B. Field, his wife, and Isaac N. Field and Mary D. Field, his wife, conveyed to the undersigned trustee the following described real estate, situate in the county of St. Louis and State of Missouri, to-wit: The east half of the southwest quarter of section number one, in township number forty-five (45) north, range number five (5) east of the fifth principal meridian, containing eighty-five acres and fourteen hundredths of an acre (85 14-100), being the same tract heretofore granted by the United States to Nicholas Tomlinson, by patent dated April 1, 1829; by said Tomlinson and wife conveyed to Ira Barbee by deed recorded in Recorder's office of St. Louis county in book S, page 362; allotted to Andrew B. Barbee by commissioners in partition as appears by there report recorded in book Y No. 5, page 336, of said Recorder's office; afterwards conveyed to John F. Lay and Abram F. Pope by deed recorded in book D No. 6, page 294, and by said Pope and wife deeded to said Lay as recorded in book P No. 6, page 98; afterwards conveyed to Richard R. Field and Charles Beardslee as recorded in book No. 6, page 191, afterwards conveyed to the firm of Field, Beardslee & Co. as recorded in book No. 183, page 415; afterwards deeded to said William B. Field and Isaac N. Field, parties hereto. Also the following described lots or parcels of ground then lying and being, in the county of St. Louis and State of Missouri, but now embraced in the limits of said city of St. Louis, to-wit: Lots numbered three (3) and four (4) in block numbered two (2) of Aubert Place, a subdivision in said county, a plat whereof is recorded in the Recorder's office of St. Louis county; bounded north by lots numbered seven and forty-two, east by lot number two, south by the Olive street plank-road, upon which they have an aggregate front of one hundred and twenty feet, and west by lot number five, having a depth each of one hundred and eighty feet, conveyed by warrantee deed to William B. Field and recorded July 7, 1857, in the Recorder's office of St. Louis county, Missouri, in book 192, page 310. Also lot twenty-seven (27) of D. W. Graham's Sulphur Spring tract, then lying in the county of St. Louis, State of Missouri, but now embraced in the limits of said city of St. Louis, containing ten acres and bounded north by lots nineteen (19) and twenty (20) of said tract, east by lot twenty-eight (28) and west by lot twenty-six (26) of said tract, being in United States survey 2037, in St. Louis county, Missouri. Which conveyance was made to secure the payment of certain promissory notes therein described; and whereas default has been made in the payment of certain of said notes, now past due; now therefore, by the provisions of said deed of trust and the power therein given me, and at the request of the legal holder of said past due and unpaid notes, I will on sell said real estate at public vendue at the east front door of the Court-house, in the said city of St. Louis, to the highest bidder, for cash, between the hours of 10 o'clock in the forenoon and 3 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, to satisfy the conditions of said deed of trust.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, by their deed of trust, dated the tenth day of July, 1874, and recorded in book 503, on page 315, in the Recorder's office of the city of St. Louis, Patrick J. Woodlock and Mary R. Woodlock, his wife, did convey to the undersigned trustee the following described property, to-wit: Thirty-one (31) shares of the capital stock of the Western Building and Loan Association, said shares being numbered 17 to 48 inclusive; also the following described real estate, viz: Part of lots numbered nine (9) and ten (10) in block number six (6) of Thomas F. Smith's addition to the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, said lots being the same acquired by said Patrick J. Woodlock by two deeds executed to him respectively by John S. Cavender and wife and by J. H. Simpson, the former being recorded in book 397, page 17, and the latter in book 332 page, 287, in the Recorder's office in the city of St. Louis, the said lots having an aggregate front of fifty-nine feet and six inches (59 ft. 6 in.) on the south side of Lucy street by a depth southwardly of one hundred and ten feet (110), and being bounded north by Lucy street, south by lot 11, east by an alley fifteen feet wide and west by Summit avenue, the part of said lots hereby conveyed being a front of fifty-one feet on Lucy (now Adams) street by a depth of seventy-two feet to a proposed alley four feet wide, the said fifty-one feet being all of the width of lot nine (9) and sixteen feet (16) six inches (6) off the western side of lot ten:

Which conveyance was in trust to secure the payment of a certain bond in said deed described; and whereas said Patrick J. Woodlock has broken the conditions of said bond in that he has failed to make payments of rent and assessments or contributions on the shares as therein required, and such payments are now overdue more than three months, by reason whereof the whole principal of said bond has become due and payable; now, therefore, at the request of the obligee in said bond, notice is hereby given that the undersigned, trustee in said deed, will on between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m. of that day, at the east front door of the Court-house in the city of St. Louis, Missouri, for cash, and at public vendue, to the highest bidder, sell said shares of stock and said real estate to satisfy said bond and trust.

TRUSTEE'S SALE of Real Estate. Whereas, Amos H. Shultz and James E. Shorb, trustees for Angeline Maguire, wife of John Maguire, said trustees acting at the written request and direction of said Angeline Maguire, and the said Angeline Maguire, for herself, by their certain Deed of Trust, dated the 4th day of September, A. D. 1877, and recorded in the Recorder's office for the city of St. Louis, in book 575 at page 494, conveyed to the undersigned trustee all that parcel of land in block No. 1930 of the city of St. Louis, Missouri, known and described as follows: Beginning at the southwest corner of Bremen avenue and North Ninth street, thence running southwardly along the west line of Ninth street 200 feet, thence westwardly 300 feet, more or less, to the east line of Bellefontaine road, alias North Tenth street, thence along the east line of Bellefontaine road, or Tenth street northwardly 200 feet to the south line of Bremen avenue, thence eastwardly along Bremen avenue 300 feet, more or less, to the place of beginning, and being bounded north by Bremen avenue, east by North Ninth street, west by Bellefontaine road or Tenth street, and south by a line parallel with and 200 feet south of the south line of Bremen avenue; which said conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of certain promissory notes in said deed described; and, whereas, the principal note and last interest note are past due and remain unpaid. Now, therefore, I, the undersigned, trustee, at the request of the legal holder of said notes and by virtue of the provisions of said deed, will, on between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the east front door of the Court-House, in the city of St. Louis, proceed to sell the above described property at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, to satisfy said notes with the interest thereon and the cost of executing this trust.

AUCTION SALE of the magnificent residence and other real estate of the estate of G. P. Beauvais, deceased.—Special Commissioner's sale of real estate in partition.—Notice is hereby given that the Circuit Court of the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, on the 9th day of June, 1880, in a certain cause numbered 52,786, room 1, and pending in said court, wherein Frederick J. Beauvais is plaintiff and Adrienne Beauvais, Edward C. Beauvais, Placide M. Beauvais, Reno A. Beauvais and Peter A. Beauvais are defendants, rendered judgment that partition amongst said parties be made of the following real estate, owned by them in fee simple as heirs of G. P. Beauvais, deceased, situated in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, to-wit:

1. Lots 15, 16, 17 and 18 of city block 1870, fronting on Tennessee avenue.

3. A lot of ground with improvements thereon situated on north side of Almond street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, bounded east by an alley, south by north line of Almond street, west by First African Church of God and north by land now or formerly of public schools, and fronting 62 feet on north line of Almond street by a depth northwardly of 109 feet.

4. Lots 22, 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27, fronting on Lux street, and lots 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, fronting on Second Carondelet avenue, all in city block 1537. The magnificent residence of the late G. P. Beauvais, No. 3317 Second Carondelet avenue, is situated on these lots.

And said Court, finding that said real estate was not susceptible of division in kind amongst said parties without great prejudice to them as owners, then and there ordered and adjudged that the same be sold according to law, and appointed the undersigned as special commissioner for that purpose.

Now, therefore, the undersigned, having first duly qualified as such special commissioner in pursuance of said order of sale and by authority of law, will expose said real estate and premises for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the east front door of the Court-house, in said city of St. Louis, on between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day.

Terms of Sale.—One half cash and balance in one year with six per cent interest, the different payments to be secured by deed of trust on the property sold.

HENRY ZIEGENHEIN, Special Commissioner.

The title is perfect and clear of incumbrance. Abstracts of title furnished. For further information apply to Henry Ziegenhein, the special commissioner, at Lafayette Bank, corner of Park and Carondelet avenues, between 10 a. m. and 12 m., or to Fred. J. Beauvais, 420 North Third street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, Floyd F. Logan and Augusta Ann, his wife, by their deed of trust dated February 9, 1871, and recorded in book 417, page 530, of the Recorder's office of the then county, now city of St. Louis, Missouri, conveyed to Bernard Bryan, as trustee, the following described real estate, situated in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, to-wit: A certain lot in city block 930, being a portion of lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 of block No. 1 of Beaumont's addition, and bounded as follows: Beginning at a point about 60 feet north of the alley running east and west through said block, thence east 100 feet to the west line of lot 5, thence north 22 feet more or less, thence west 100 feet, thence south 22 feet more or less to the place of beginning, on which is a three story brick house, formerly No. 614, now No. 618 Beaumont street, being the fourth house north of said alley, to secure the payment of certain promissory notes in said deed described; and whereas, default has been made in the payment of one of said notes; and whereas Bernard Bryan, the trustee in said deed, is dead; and whereas the Sheriff of the county and the Sheriff of the city of St. Louis have both refused to act under said deed, now therefore I, the undersigned, trustee, by virtue of the appointment of the St. Louis Circuit Court, made October 19, 1880, will, in pursuance of the terms of said deed, and at the request of the legal owner and holder of said notes, on between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., proceed to sell the property hereinbefore described, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash, at the east front door of the Court-house, in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, for the purposes of said trust.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—By virtue and authority of a special execution issued from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court at the City of St. Louis, returnable to the December term, 1880, of said court, and to me directed, wherein the State of Missouri, at the relation and to the use of Myer A. Rosenblatt, Collector of the city of St. Louis, in the State of Missouri, is plaintiff, and Christopher Maguire is defendant, I have levied upon and seized the following described real estate, situated in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, and charged with the lien of tax bill on which this action is founded, and described in said execution as follows, to-wit:

No. 1. Lots 95, 96 and 97 in city block No. 2332 in the addition or survey of Walnut Hill, having a front width each of 50 feet on Maiden Lane, by a length or depth each of 12 feet and 6 inches.

No. 2. Lots 13, 14 and 15 in city block No. 2342, being in the addition or survey of Walnut Hill, having a front or width each of 50 feet on Maiden Lane by a length or depth of 140 feet each.

And I will, on

FRIDAY, THE 5TH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1880,

between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the east front door of the Court-house in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, sell at public auction, for cash, to the highest bidder, the above described property, or so much thereof as will satisfy said execution and costs.

THE TRIANGULAR WAR.

The superintendents and general passenger agents of the various railroads interested in the tri-angular St. Louis, Chicago and Kansas City passenger rate war are holding a meeting in Chicago to-day to try and fix up matters. In the meantime the situation remains unchanged in St. Louis. The Vandalia is maintaining its $5 00 limited rate to Chicago, but the other roads only sell at regular rates. It is universally believed that the outcome of the Chicago meeting to-day will be a lower regular rate for both Chicago and Kansas City. Indeed, it is not easy to see how there can be any peace except on such a basis. The rate must be sufficiently low to enable all the roads to do a portion of the business, and not allow the travel to all run to the Wabash on its immense sale of unlimited tickets. The scalpers are now disposing of unlimited tickets to Chicago at about $5 50, giving them a good profit of seventy cents each. A six-dollar rate would protect the interests of all the roads pretty fairly, as the scalpers would then only have an advantage of about fifty cents—which they always have. As fewer of the Kansas City unlimited tickets were sold to speculators, so now they are bringing one dollar more than the Chicago tickets. It is not likely that any conclusion will be reached at Chicago to-day until quite late, so that no change in selling rates will reach here before to-morrow.

Concert For the Benefit of the Dead Fireman's Family.

The benefit concert and entertainment for the family of the late George Dauber, the fireman who died from injuries received at the Scarritt Furniture Company fire on Fourth street, will take place to-morrow evening in Mercantile Library Hall. Several well-known ladies have interested themselves in this worthy scheme for providing the widow at the gallant fireman with the means of maintaining herself and little ones. A large number of tickets have been sold, and as some of the best professional singers as well as amateur actors in St. Louis will appear, the concert will be, beyond a doubt, a success.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

A Negro Arrested by the Police Supposed to be Wanted at California, Mo.

Mr. John Tillery, Marshal of California, Mo., arrived in the city this morning to take charge of a negro who was arrested a few days ago and who, it is supposed, is wanted at California. On the 5th inst. a negro called at the residence of Mrs. A. G. Barlow, the wife of the ex-Prosecuting Attorney of Moniteau county. He asked for a drink of water, which was given him, and after this he discovered that Mrs. Barlow was alone in the house and immediately demanded something to eat. Before the lady could recover from surprise at his manner he attacked her, and forcing her into the house outraged her person, and then fled. The lady partially recovered and notified her neighbors. A meeting of citizens was held and a reward of $500 offered for the capture of the villain. The matter was then put into the hands of Marshal Tillery, who has been remarkably successful in bringing criminals to justice. He at once sent copies of the description furnished by Mrs. Barlow to different points in the State. Shortly after Capt. Fox, of the Mounted District, received his he was told that a negro answering the description was out on the Missouri Pacific Railroad, about forty miles from the city. Sergeant Newman and Officer Ryan were sent out to investigate. They searched the woods in the vicinity designated and were about to return to the city, when they saw some smoke rising out of a thick wood half a mile away. Though almost fagged out, they hurried to the spot, and there found a negro who gave his name as John Smith, and who answered the description. They brought him to town with all his traps and cooking utensils, which consisted of some cans and tin pans. Marshal Tillery was notified and arrived from California. Though not positive that it is the man they want, he thinks that he will be fully justified in taking him back to California.

Special Card to the Ladies.

We have opened this week in the Boys' Clothing Department at the "FAMOUS" an assortment of fine all-wool suits for boys, age four to eleven, that can not be duplicated by any clothing house in St. Louis, or the West, for less than $7 50 and $8 per suit. You will be utterly astonished at the value represented and your surprise will be great when you know that our price is $5 per suit. We claim that THIS is the biggest bargain ever offered in this city, and we want every lady and gentleman with boys to clothe to see them. They are superb!

It can not be EXCELLED—our $30 ladies' GOLD watch. Mermod, Jaccard & Co., Fourth and Locust.

CARONDELET JOTTINGS.

B. O'Reilly raised a large Hancock flag yesterday, making a speech himself and was followed by several other gentlemen. By followed is meant to the rear room of his store.

Mr. A. S. Rutherford was sinking rapidly this morning and cannot live but a short time. Carondelet will lose a good citizen and business man; one highly respected and one who will be sincerely mourned.

An exciting adventure took place yesterday as the carriages of a funeral procession were returning to the city. At Luxemburg a driver of one of Mr. Conrad's carriages went into a saloon, leaving the team, which became frightened and started off at full speed. There were several ladies and children in the carriage, whose screams could be heard above the noise produced by the rattling of the carriage. After running at full speed nearly two miles the team was stopped, and with slight injury to the vehicle, one door being broken off and the tongue broken. As the team dashed along Fourth street the most intense excitement was caused.

Jupiter Lodge, No. 1843, Knights of Honor, was instituted in this part of the city October 31, of last year. The lodge a few weeks ago determined to give a grand complimentary entertainment on or about the first annual anniversary. This entertainment took place last night at Turner Hall, over five hundred being in attendance, and the entire affair was a credit to Jupiter Lodge, and especially to the committee that had the arrangement of the entertainment, which no doubt proved an occasion of unusual interest to the invited guests. The Dictator of the lodge, Dr. W. B. Outten, delivered an address of stirring interest, and which from the interest manifested by the large audience must have created a decidedly favorable impression with regard to the merits of the order and has given an impetus to the cause in Carondelet, which will prove, it is hoped, of decided advantage to Jupiter Lodge. The following comprises the programme: Address, W. B. Outten, M. D.; Moonlight on the Lake, White, West End Quartet; Recitation, "Only a Brakeman," Miss Mary A. Hogan; Flute solo,— Andante, Pastorale, Bohm, Allegro, "Caprice," Terschak, John A. Kieselhorst; Soprano solo, Segnol, Schira, Miss Ninie Russell; Violin solo, Eleventh Air De Beriot, Master Willie Navo; Quartet, Ecco Quel Fieri Istante, Costa, Miss Ninie Russell, Miss Nellie Uhl, Dr. P. H. Cronin, Edward Dierkes; Tenor solo, "I Cannot say Goodby," Roeckel, Dr. P. H. Cronin; Recitation, "The Lost Heir," Hood, Miss Mary A. Hogan; Alto solo, Waltz, Gumbert, Miss Nellie Uhl; Trio, Nocturne, Behr, violin, flute and piano, Master Willie Navo, John A. Kieselhorst, Wm. Navo; Waltz, Becker, West End Quartet.

The ladies of Olive Branch Lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor, No. 319, provided the supper, and a grand repast was spread, the tables being loaded with both substantials and luxuries. They were also indefatigable in personal attention to their guests, and the members of sister lodges from the city realized fully that, although Olive Branch Lodge has been instituted but a few weeks, the members in point of standing, social culture, unbounded hospitality and culinary talent, an important consideration for both married and single ladies, are equal to the older lodges in the city. The entire programme of the entertainment was pronounced the most complete ever witnessed in Carondelet.

Second District Police Court.

At the Second District Police Court this morning nineteen prisoners responded to the call of Marshal Carr. Three who were arrested for vagrancy had their cases continued until October 28. John McCarthy, for disturbing the peace, had to hand over $25, and Mary Gaubien, against whom the same charge was made, was induced to plank down $10. For being drunk on the street Thomas O'Brien, Eliza Wells, Dick Jennines, Thomas Madden, Bridget Kelley and Mary Gainey were each assessed $3. Henry Kane, alias John Johnson, who is known to the police as a sneak thief, was found last night in a building on Cass avenue and arrested. He was fined $100 for trespassing. Susan Brown, the keeper of a brothel, and three of her "boarders" had their cases continued until November 3.

IF you see a fancy ulsterette or handsome overcoat "down town," at $20 or $25, and they tell you "it is the 'tony thing' of the season, only to be had here," you CAN MAKE UP YOUR MIND that the same article can be had at the "Famous" for from $2 50 to $5 less.

Sent to the Work-House.

Thomas McCarthy, a youth who was arrested on Saturday night while with a gang of young thieves who were after robbing a cigar store on O'Fallon street, was arraigned this morning in the Second District Police Court before Judge Dennison. The charge of complicity in the burglary could not be sustained, but one of vagrancy was made against McCarthy, who is not more than eighteen years of age. He tried to make the court believe that he worked, but, failing to do so, boasted that at any time he could go to his sister, a hard-working, poor woman, and get four or five dollars. Judge Dennison came to the conclusion that McCarthy could best serve his country in the Workhouse, and fined him $500.

Small Blazes.

Officer Cummins extinguished a fire in a vacant house on Magazine street, between Glasgow and Webster avenues. The house is the property of Davis Carter, who lives at 3514 Cass avenue. It is supposed that some boys set fire to the building. Damage $5; fully insured.

Officers Waddell and Gilmore discovered a fire in the sheds rear of Mr. F. A. Steer's residence, No. 2904 Pine street, about 11 o'clock last night. The officers extinguished the flames without turning on an alarm before much damage was done. The blaze was caused bydep ositing hot ashes near the boards.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

To-night the working-men will turn out in full force to hear J. F. Scanlon discuss the tariff question.

The Justices may be expected to reap a rich harvest from the butchers in a few days. The license, which is now due for over a year, is to be the cause of their trouble.

Henry Bock, a German musician, is a present occupying quarters in the Police station. Officer Dunphy made the arrest. Bock is a deserter from the United States army.

'Squire Noton did not render a decision in the license case which was ventilated in his court yesterday. The case was taken under advisement and will not be decided till Saturday.

J. F. Courder swore out a warrant yesterday before 'Squire Graney against Mrs. E. Snedecker, charging her with disturbing the peace and offensive conduct and carriage. The case came up before Graney this morning, but was postponed till 2 o'clock.

Capt. George Crotty the market-master, was raising considerable excitement in the vicinity of the market-house this morning. During the night some one stole his little black and tan dog. Any one returning the dog to the market-house will be suitably rewarded.

Paul Boyle, a railroad man, occupied quarters in the jail last night for fighting and striking one J. F. Courder over the head with a blunt instrument, inflicting an ugly gash. The trial was set for 9 o'clock, but was postponed till 2, on account of absent witnesses.

The number of voters on the registering books last night amounted to 2,231, of which number the First Ward has 500, the Second Ward 731, the Third Ward 450 and the Fourth Ward 550. Many of the residents of the First and Third Wards are registered in the Second, hence the increase of voters.

Chief Renshaw has received notice to be on the lookout for a team of brown mules and spring wagon which were stolen from D. H. Funderburk on the 23d of October. D. H. Funderburk resides at Moawequa, Ill., and offers $100 reward for the return of the property and conviction of the thief, or $50 for either.

James Fitzrodgers, a colored man, applied to 'Squires Eggmann and Graney yesterday and asked to be registered. Graney put the usual question, "Where do you live?" when Fitzrodgers replied, "Cass avenue and Tenth." Graney informed him that he was in the town, but Fitzrodgers could not see the point. Several other cases like this appeared but with a like result.

Charles F. Wangelin, Esq., the Democratic candidate for Circuit Clerk of St. Clair county, is a citizen who is an honor to any community, and the voters will do themselves honor by electing him to the position. All who know Charley Wangelin express the unanimous opinion that he is a gentleman of sterling integrity in every relation of life, and one of the most liberal, genial and whole-souled men in the county. In short he possesses the three Jacksonian attributes—honesty, capability and competency—and we are assured that next Tuesday he will poll his full party strength, which, with numerous votes from Republican personal friends, assures his election beyond peradventure.

Posting Indecent Placards.

Chas. Wolford and Ben Libson, two boys, were arraigned in the First District Police Court to-day on a charge of posting indecent bills on private property. The boys had playfully posted a small placard of some Cincinnati quack. The fine in the case could be $50 if the boys were convicted, but the defendants' attorney showed that the ordinance was badly drawn up, and that to convict it was necessary to show that the party posting was the one advertised or is employed by him. As this could not be shown the case was nolle pros'ed.

Supervisors of Elections.

Sometime this afternoon, or to-morrow, Judge Treat will probably pass upon the names sent in by Supervisor Allen for United States Supervisors of Election. Up to the present time 120 names have been submitted. These are the recommendations of the Democratic and Republican Central Committees. It is most likely that all the persons recommended will be approved. The deputy marshals will be appointed in a day or two.

THE BEST UNLAUNDRIED SHIRT in the world, patent bound bosom, linen bosom and cuffs, can be had at "Famous" for 75c. Beats any $1 shirt in St. Louis.

Arrested on Warrants.

Martin Hunt, charged with assaulting Patrick O'Leary with intent to do great bodily harm, and Patrick Daniels, accused of assaulting Chas. W. Townsend, were arrested on warrants to day. The latter gave bond and the former was committed to jail.

THE accumulated evidence of nearly thirty years shows that the Bitters is a certain remedy for malarial disease, as well as its surest preventive; that it eradicates dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint and nervousness, counteracts a tendency to gout, rheumatism, urinary and uterine disorders, that it imparts vigor to the feeble, and cheers the mind while it invigorates the body.
